About this game...

• Georgia tips off its SEC schedule with a Wednesday night game at No. 21 Missouri. The Bulldogs arrive at this juncture of the season with a 6-6 overall record. Most recently, they dropped a 73-55 decision last Friday night at George Washington.

Wednesday's game is the third consecutive road contest for Georgia, and third straight on the road against a quality opponent. The Bulldogs began this streak on Dec. 28 at Colorado, which has risen to 15th in the current AP Top 25 and has a 13-2 record. George Washington, which began this week with a 12-2 mark, received votes in both polls that were released on Monday.

• Tonight's game will also mark the fourth year in five under coach Mark Fox in which Georgia has opened the SEC schedule against a Top 25 opponent. In Years 1 & 2 it was Kentucky; Year 4 it was Florida; and this year it is Missouri. In the only season that didn't follow this pattern (2012), the Bulldogs opened SEC play against Alabama, which later earned a No. 9 seed in the NCAA Tournament.

• Wednesday's game is just the fifth all-time meeting between Georgia and Missouri in basketball, and only the second as fellow members of the SEC. Missouri has won all four previous meetings, most recently a 79-62 decision in Columbia last season. More information from that game follows later in this notes packaeg. The Tigers will make their first-ever conference road trip to Athens for a Feb. 25 contest.

• Georgia is in the midst of perhaps the most challenging portion of its 2014 schedule. Missouri marks the third game in a six-of-eight stretch in which the Bulldogs will face a Top 100 RPI opponent. Before this stretch, Georgia had faced just one Top 100 team in Nebraska, which currently has a 67 RPI rating.

Georgia vs. Missouri

• Wednesday's game is the fifth all-time meeting between these two programs. Missouri has won all four previous meetings.

• Most recently, Georgia and Missouri played once last season, on Jan. 16, 2013 in Columbia. Missouri won the contest 79-62 in the only meeting between the two as SEC members.

• Before that meeting, Georgia and Missouri played a home-and-home series, agreed upon by previous head coaches at both schools, during the 2009-10 seasons. Missouri won 83-76 in Athens in January of 2009, then followed with an 89-61 victory in Columbia the next season.

• The first meeting between these two schools came in the 2001 NCAA Tournament in Greensboro, N.C. Missouri won 70-68 on a last-second shot by guard Clarence Gilbert.

Noteworthy

• Much has been made of the new enforcement of existing rules, as well as new rules, this season. Thus far, as all participants adjust to these changes, the volume of called fouls rose in the beginning but has leveled off recently. There has been an average of 40 fouls called in each of Georgia's games thus far this season, compared to 36 fouls per game last season.

• The Colorado game on Dec. 28 marked Georgia's seventh time this season shooting at least 50 percent from the field. As this week began, the Bulldogs ranked 44th nationally in field-goal percentage at 48.1. Addiontionally, the 2014 Georgia squad is averaging nearly 12 points more than last season (71.8 to 60.8) and shooting almost eight percentage points higher (48.1 to 40.8 percent). Four regulars are currently shooting over 50 percent, including Nemi Djurisic, who also leads the Bulldogs in shooting 51 percent from 3-point range.

• Perhaps no statistic has had a greater effect on Georgia's fate this season than in rebounding. Simply stated, when the Bulldogs have outrebounded their opponent, they've won. When they haven't, they've lost. In Georgia's six wins, the Bulldogs have compiled a +11.5 rebounding margin, topped by a 49-24 difference in the season opener against Wofford. Their rebounding margin in six losses is a -4.5.

• Another telling statistic this season: Georgia's opponents have combined to shoot over 76 percent from the free-throw line. That's the highest figure for any SEC school thus far, and by a significant margin. In addition to Colorado's perfect 26-for-26 effort, three other UGA opponents have shot over 80 percent at the line.

• As Georgia finds its best rotation, the Bulldogs are one of seven SEC schools with no player currently averaging 30 minutes of playing time per game. Alabama and Missouri lead this category with three 30-minute players each.

• Georgia began this season amidst low expectations...externally, anyway. The Bulldogs were picked by the media that cover SEC basketball to finish 11th in the 14-team league, ahead of only South Carolina, Mississippi State and Auburn. This, despite a 9-9 SEC record last year and an eighth-place tie in the final standings. Kentucky, Florida and Tennessee were picked 1-2-3 in the same poll. Additionally, no Bulldogs were selected to the 16-player preseason All-SEC lists.

About the Schedule

• Conference expansion manifests itself in many strange ways, not the least of which occurs in scheduling. Georgia fans noticed this oddity most recently as their football team has traveled to Auburn in consecutive seasons.

This season their basketball team will experience one of the oddest quirks to its schedule in years. Kentucky will not travel to Athens for a game this season for the first time since the 1962-63 season. Same for Tennessee. For Florida, which also won't play a game in Athens this season, the last time it didn't play in Athens was in 1961-62. The Gators are the most frequent opponent in UGA hoops history.

It took a World War to keep all three schools out of Athens together in the same season the last time. Not since the 1943-44 season -- when Georgia dotted its schedule with random groups like Lawson General Hospital and Robins Airfield -- has this phenomenon occurred.

• Wednesday's game is Georgia's third true road game of the season. The Bulldogs have played seven home games and three neutral-court games thus far at the Charleston Classic in late November.

The Last Time

#17 Missouri 79, Georgia 62
Jan. 16, 2013 - Columbia, Mo.

Game Summary

No. 17 Missouri got double-figure scoring from five different players, took an early lead and held Georgia at bay to post a victory in these two teams' first-ever SEC matchup against each other.

The outcome overshadowed a career-best outing for Bulldog senior guard Vincent Williams, whose 23 points bettered his previous high by nine and buoyed the Georgia offense throughout.

The Tigers took the first lead in this game and eventually built their margin to 18 points late in the second half. Until then, however, Georgia fought gamely, deploying a zone defense and using a revitalized offense that was powered by Williams.

Mizzou scored seven straight points in the early going, stretching a 2-point lead into a nine-point bulge. Keion Bell's jumper at the 13:41 mark ended the run and made the score 13-4.

The margin reached double figures for the first time at 20-9 on an Earnest Ross 3-pointer with 9:21 left in the first half. It rose to 14 points on a trey by Tony Criswell with 3:27 left before a brief rally by Georgia made things interesting before halftime. Kentavious Caldwell-Pope's three-pointer with 18 seconds left cut the deficit to 38-30 at intermission.

Though the second-half margin remained mostly in double digits, there was a brief stretch when the Bulldogs challenged. After a John Florveus putback pulled the Dogs within 46-37, they failed to convert on two subsequent possessions to get closer. A three-point play by Ross restored the lead to 49-37 with 13:19 left.

Team / Individual Notes

Williams also set a career high with four rebounds...He exceeded his total scoring output in the preceding eight games...Georgia shot a season-best 59 percent from 3-point range.

Offense on the Uptick

• One thing is apparent through the early going this season: Georgia's offense appears to be measurably more effective than last season, even without its best scorer from 2013. In 10 of 12 games thus far, the Bulldogs have scored well over their seasonal average (60.8) of last season. The team's overall shooting percentage has also risen from 40.8 of last season to its current mark of 48.1.

Already, Georgia has shot over 50 percent from the field in seven games, more than twice as often as in all of 2012-13. The Bulldogs began this week ranking 39th nationally in FG percentage.

Williams a Seasoned Veteran

• With Marcus Thornton receiving a medical redshirt season from 2013, Donte' Williams became the Bulldogs' lone senior this season. He is already the most experienced Bulldog, having started 71 games in the past two+ seasons. That's more than twice the total of Thornton, who is second on the team in career starts with 36, including seven in his truncated season of 2013. Williams entered this season with 471 career points, second among all Bulldogs behind Nemi Djurisic, who has tallied 475 in two seasons.

More Noteworthy

• Four Bulldogs this season have made their first starts at the Division 1 collegiate level: Kenny Gaines, Cameron Forte, Juwan Parker and Taylor Echols.

• One effect of not having Kentavious Caldwell-Pope on this year's team: last year, 30 percent of Georgia's total field goals were scored from 3-point range. This year, just 16 percent thus far have come from beyond the arc. Perhaps another way to view this difference: last season's Georgia team averaged scoring 22 points in the paint area. This season, that number thus far has risen to 36.5 points in the paint.

Most discussion involving KCP's absence has revolved around its effect on the Georgia offense. Little discussion has pertained to its effect on the Georgia defense, which this year has allowed its opponents a .406 overall field-goal percentage, .345 from 3-point range, compared to .388 and .329, respectively, with KCP in the lineup last season.

• On Dec. 28, when Colorado sank all 26 of its free-throw attempts, it marked the first time in almost 19 years a Bulldog opponent had shot 100 percent. Tennessee went 10x10 against Georgia on Feb. 11, 1995. That was 584 games ago. For Georgia, it's been 767 games since its last 100 percent shooting night...back to Jan. 14, 1989 vs. Vanderbilt (12x12).

• Georgia has now shot at least 50 percent from the field seven times this season. One more such outing and the Bulldogs will equal the number of 50 percent shooting games over the previous two seasons combined.

Mann is the Man

• Charles Mann enjoyed one of the best seasons by a freshman guard in Georgia history last year. The Alpharetta resident ranked third on the team in scoring at 6.7 points per game. He led the Bulldogs in assists with 92 and free-throw attempts with 170. Mann's 92 assists, in fact, were the most by a freshman guard since Dustin Ware's 108 in 2009. Ware started 17 games and averaged over 25 minutes that season.

Mann's 170 trips to the free throw line -- fifth-best total in the SEC last season -- were the most by a Georgia freshman guard since Litterial Green tried 187 foul shots in his rookie season of 1989.

Echols Makes Most of Opportunity

• It's almost rare when a walk-on sticks with a team for more than a season. But Taylor Echols stuck it out through a 2013 season in which he played in just three games after making the squad in an open tryout in September 2012.

Both parties are now thankful he stayed with it. Echols has emerged as perhaps Georgia's top backup at point guard, based upon the Bulldogs' past three games. On Dec. 14, he played 23 minutes at point against Lipscomb and was Georgia's most effective player at that position, spelling an injured Charles Mann. His nine points and four assists were career highs by far. Additionally, he ranks second on the team behind Nemi Djurisic in 3-point FG percentage (.412).

These are heady times indeed for Echols, who went largely unrecruited through high school but grew up a huge fan of the Bulldogs.

Djurisic is Dogs' Top Returning Scorer

Junior forward Nemi Djurisic is Georgia's top returning scorer for the 2013-14 season. The 6-8 native of Montenegro averaged 7.9 points during the entirety of the season, 7.8 during 18 SEC games. This marks the first time in nine years that Georgia has no double-figure scorer coming back from the previous season. In the 2004-05 season, Levi Stukes was the Bulldogs' highest-scoring returnee at 9.5 points. The 7.9 ppg average by Djurisic is the smallest average by the highest-scoring returnee since Ray Harrison led the 1996-97 Bulldogs with a 6.3 scoring average.

Forte Cracks the Starting Lineup

Junior-college transfer Cameron Forte became the first Georgia newcomer this season to earn first-team status. The Tempe, Ariz., native played his way into the starting lineup with a pair of strong performances, first in Georgia's exhibition game vs. UNC-Pembroke and later in the season opener vs. Wofford. He tallied 10 points and seven rebounds in just 18 minutes of the exhibition game. Four days later he contributed nine points and two boards in 16 minutes off the bench against Wofford.

Forte has created a niche for himself as perhaps the Bulldogs' most effective inside scorer. In the description of teammate Nemi Djurisic, "he just hunts the basket."

Forte originally signed with Texas Tech out of McClintock High School in Tempe but lasted just one semester in Lubbock before transferring to Northern Arizona. He eventually landed at Howard College in Big Spring, Texas.

Georgia and the SEC

Following are a few tidbits about Georgia's history in the SEC:

• Georgia's all-time record in SEC games, covering 80 years, is 498-732 (.405). That ranks 10th of 12 SEC members (excluding Missouri and Texas A&M).

• Georgia can claim one SEC regular-season championship (1990), one regular-season divisional title (2002) and two SEC Tournament crowns (1983, 2008).

• Georgia has had just two AP SEC Player of the Year: Dominique Wilkins in 1981 and Kentavious Caldwell-Pope last season. Other superlative post-season awards include Coaches' SEC Defensive Player of the Year (Rashad Wright in 2004), AP SEC Newcomer of the Year (Jarvis Hayes in 2002), and Scholar-Athlete of the Year (Dave Bliss in 2008).

• Wilkins was the first of four Georgia players to lead the SEC in scoring at season's end. He averaged a league-best 23.6 points per game in 1981. Others to follow him have been Vern Fleming (19.8 ppg in 1984), Jumaine Jones (18.8 ppg in 1999) and Jarvis Hayes (18.6 ppg in 2002).

• Georgia has an all-time SEC Tournament record of 40-51. The 2008 tourney marked the first time since 1997 that Georgia has reached the finals.

Staff Changes for 2014

For the first time of his 4+ seasons in Athens, head coach Mark Fox made changes to his immediate coaching staff. Three-year UGA letterman (2002-04) Jonas Hayes was promoted from Operations Coordinator to Assistant Coach. A native Atlantan, Hayes returned to UGA in 2012 after serving as an Assistant Coach at Belmont Abbey in North Carolina for five seasons. He had also assisted the programs at South Carolina State, Morehouse and his alma mater, Douglass High School, after graduating from UGA in 2004.

Hayes, whose twin brother Jarvis continues to play professionally overseas, became the first Georgia basketball alumnus to hold a full-time assistant's position on the staff at his alma mater since Mark Slonaker assisted Hugh Durham from 1989-95.

To replace Hayes in the Coordinator's position, Fox hired Byron Samuels in May of 2013. The Winston-Salem, N.C., native, is a veteran of the collegiate ranks whose career includes head coaching stops at Hampton, Radford and, most lastly, at Hillsborough Community College, where he coached recent UGA alum John Florveus. Samuels is a veteran of SEC basketball, having assisted four Tennessee teams that earned NCAA Tournament berths.

Fox Best at Molding Talent

Blogger and hoops junkie Dan Hanner of RealGM.com penned an article in February of 2012 that anointed Georgia head coach Mark Fox as the top coach in college basketball at player development. Hanner used a complex formula to rate college coaches. Among Hanner's many observations he writes, "Mark Fox has truly been fantastic at getting the most out of his players."

The top five in the Player Development category include Fox; Bo Ryan (Wisconsin); Craig Robinson (Oregon State); Lorenzo Romar (Washington); and Mike Montgomery (Cal).

Perhaps the most tangible proof of Fox's talent development is the number of NBA draftees and current pros that have played for him. Kentavious Caldwell-Pope became the 11th player under his tutelage to get drafted by an NBA club. He was the fourth 1st-rounder.

Fox Also Tops at Producing Grads

Head Coach Mark Fox must also receive some degree of credit for developing high-performing students in the classroom. Since his arrival in April of 2009, no fewer than 14 Georgia basketball players have earned their undergraduate degrees. Every player that has exhausted his eligibility at UGA under Fox has completed his degree.

Prominent among this group of 14 includes Damien Wilkins – nephew of UGA great Dominique Wilkins – whose last year of eligibility came in 2004 and who has played professionally in the NBA ever since.

Last summer the Georgia program was recognized by the NCAA for its Academic Progress Rate (APR) scored of 990, which ranked among the top 10 percent of all men's basketball programs.

The table below breaks down every major statistical category and what the Bulldogs bring back in 2013-14 vs. what they lost from last season (broken down in total numbers & percentages).

2013-14 Game Summaries

Georgia 72, Wofford 52
Nov. 8, 2013 - Athens, Ga.

Game Summary

Nemi Djurisic led a balanced scoring effort with 12 points as Georgia built a big first-half lead and cruised to a season-opening win over Wofford.

In all, 12 of the 14 Georgia players that saw action scored in this game. The Bulldogs also won the rebounding battle by a 49-24 margin, a key statistic in their convincing win.

Both teams needed several minutes into the game to get untracked. Wofford, in fact, took the early lead and maintained it until a tip-in by Cameron Forte at the 13:20 mark put Georgia in front for the first time at 10-8.

The Bulldogs took the lead for good four possessions later on a jumper by Kenny Gaines that put them ahead 14-12 with 10:03 left.

Georgia took its first double-digit lead of the game at 30-20 on a foul shot by Tim Dixon with 3:44 left. By the time the first half expired, the Bulldogs had stretched the margin to 39-20. Reserve guard J.J. Frazier finished scoring on a long 3-pointer with 47 seconds left.

The Georgia lead reached its largest at 50-25 on a free throw by Forte just over five minutes in the final period. The Bulldogs managed to keep Wofford at arm's length for the remainder, despite the Terriers climbing back within 62-48 in the closing minutes.

Team / Individual Notes

Georgia's 20-point margin represented its largest spread with an 81-59 win over Arkansas in the 2012 season...The Bulldogs' largest lead at 50-25 would have been last year's biggest lead by six points...Georgia's +25 rebounding margin was its largest in three seasons...Four Bulldogs scored at least four field goals apiece, something last year's team did just once.

Georgia Tech 80, Georgia 71
Nov. 15, 2013 -- Athens, Ga.

Game Summary

Big men Daniel Miller and Kammeon Holsey posted double-doubles, and Georgia Tech got 18 points from transfer Trae Golden, as the Jackets won its third consecutive game in this series in convincing fashion.

Tech broke open the tight game with runs late in the first half, and again early in the second period. Both teams took turns holding command of the contest in the first half, but Golden's 3-pointer with 1:56 left put the Jackets ahead 37-35. They never trailed thereafter.

His team trailing 43-38, Nemi Djurisic opened second-half scoring with a steal, drive and pair of foul shots. Georgia Tech responded by reeling of the game's next 12 points and, essentially, deciding the outcome. The last six of those points came on consecutive treys by Solomon Poole and Golden.

Just twice after Tech's big run was Georgia able to get its deficit back into single digits. The final significant time came with 11:40 left on a pair of Kenny Gaines free throws that cut the margin to 60-51.

Tech boosted the lead back into double figures and secured the victory with accurate free-throw shooting. Indeed, the Jackets' last eight points, covering the final 6:36 in the game, came from the foul line.

Team / Individual Notes

Charles Mann's 24 points were a career high, six higher than his previous high...Unfortunately, his seven turnovers were the most by a Georgia player in three years...Golden, who transferred from Tennessee after last season, scored a career best in games against the Bulldogs; his previous high had been 16 (twice in 2012).

Davidson 94, Georgia 82
Nov. 21, 2013 - Charleston, S.C.

Game Summary

Guard Brian Sullivan scored 18 first-half points and combined with DeMon Brooks to score 20 points from the three-throw line as Davidson handed Georgia a 94-82 loss in the Charleston Classic first round.

In all, the Wildcats tallied 34 of their points in a seemingly endless parade to the charity stripe. Brooks led all scorers with 21 points, just eight of which came from the field.

It was Sullivan's hot shooting, however, that got Davidson headed in the right direction. He opened scoring with a 3-pointer on the game's first possession and made two more during the first half.

Despite trailing through much of the first half, Georgia managed to keep pace and even forge ahead for a brief spell. A trey by Nemi Djurisic at the 8:28 mark gave the Bulldogs their largest lead of the game at 26-23.

Sullivan made three foul shots on Davidson's next possession to tie the score. The two teams traded baskets twice before Tom Droney's trey with 5:43 left put the Wildcats ahead for good at 33-30.

Davidson made a decisive 7-0 push to close first-half scoring and push its lead into double digits. Four free throws by Sullivan sandwiched a 3-pointer by Jordan Barham, giving their team a 46-36 margin at intermission.

Georgia got as close as 50-44 in the second period on a basket by Juwan Parker with 17:29 left. Brooks responded with an old-fashioned 3-point play and Davidson was never seriously threatened thereafter.

Team / Individual Notes

Georgia shot 55 percent from the field and lost for the first time in over three seasons...Djurisic came within two points of a career high...Two OT periods in the UAB-New Mexico game just before Georgia's caused the Dogs & Wildcats to tip nearly 90 minutes late...This was Davidson's first win of the season after dropping three straight games.

Game Summary

Will Cummings' long 3-pointer with seven seconds left provided the winning margin for Temple, which had watched Georgia erase a 15-point deficit in this Charleston Classic second-round game.

Indeed, the Owls led by 13 at intermission and quickly added two more to the margin as the final period opened. Thus began the Bulldogs' long, slow climb back into contention, a journey that lasted until the final minute.

Georgia responded to its largest deficit of the game by scoring 10 unanswered points. The run ended at 47-42 on a free throw by Donte' Williams at the 16:18 mark. Temple countered with five straight points of its own, the latter two on foul shots by Quenton Decosey just 90 seconds later.

Again, Georgia fought back to 53-51 on nine straight points, the last two on a layup by Charles Mann with 12:11 left. And yet again, the Owls responded with seven consecutive points, capped by a Daniel Dingle 3-pointer that pushed the margin back to 60-51.

The difference remained more than one possession until Georgia finally drew even at 71 on a 3-pointer by Nemi Djurisic with 4:07 left.

After Temple had regained a 4-point lead, the Bulldogs scored five straight points to take their first lead of the second half with 18 seconds left. Mann's drive through the lane produced the go-ahead basket and gave rise to Cummings' decisive bucket just 11 seconds later.

Team / Individual Notes

Kenny Gaines scored a career-high 21 points...Brandon Morris made his first appearance of the season, checking in at the under-8 time out of the first half...Georgia shot 50 percent from the field for the second straight game... Temple's Pepper scored 15 of his game-high 22 points in the first half, all from beyond the 3-point stripe.

Nebraska 73, Georgia 65
Nov. 24, 2013 -- Charleston, S.C.

Game Summary

Georgia was unable to overcome its own errant shooting eye, particularly from the free-throw line, and Nebraska broke open a tight game late to take seventh place at the Charleston Classic.

The Bulldogs trailed at halftime but staged a brief rally to forge ahead near the midpoint of the second period. A dunk by Kenny Gaines at the 10:47 mark gave Georgia its first lead of the game at 49-48. After a Nebraska turnover, Donte' Williams put the Dogs further ahead with a baseline jumper.

Nebraska, however, fought back to tie the score at 52 on a jumper by Walter Pitchford. The teams traded empty trips before Marcus Thornton failed to convert a 1-and-1 opportunity with 7:56 left. Husker guard Tai Webster seized the opening and sank a 3-pointer that gave his team the lead for good at the 7:45 mark.

Georgia's last time within a single possession came on a driving basket by Charles Mann that pulled the Bulldogs within 59-56 with 4:38 left. The Huskers pulled away in the final minutes by scoring at least one point on eight of their final nine possessions.

Georgia held the upper hand for much of the first half before struggling through the closing minutes. The Bulldogs led by as many as six points at 14-8 on two free throws by Juwan Parker with 13:43 left. Nebraska then used hot shooting by reserve Ray Gallegos to reverse its fortunes and take control. His jumper with 2:47 left put the Huskers in front by 34-25 before Georgia closed first-half scoring with six straight points.

Team / Individual Notes

Georgia made just six of 15 foul shots in the second half...Nebraska, meanwhile, made 14 of 17 in the same period...Morris' 14 points were a career high, as were Thornton's 13 points...Donte' Williams' 12 rebounds were one shy of a career best and just his third double-digit game ever.

Georgia 71, Appalachian State 53
Nov. 29, 2013 - Athens, Ga.

Game Summary

Georgia broke open a tight game with a 17-point margin in the final period, defeating Appy State and taking a solid first step towards restoring its confidence after a 4-game skid.

The two teams spent the opening half trading leads seven times. Georgia's largest advantage came at 20-13 on a Donte' Williams jumper with 10:08 left. Less than four minutes later, Appalachian State fought back to claim a 23-22 lead on a 3-point play by Tab Hamilton.

The Mountaineers' last lead of the half came on a 3-point shot by Mike Neal that put them ahead 32-31 with 51 seconds left. Two foul shots by Kenny Gaines restored Georgia's lead at intermission.

A fast-breaking dunk by Gaines with 18:46 left in the game put Georgia ahead for good at 37-36. The Bulldogs needed another six minutes to build their lead into double digits. Nemi Djurisic's layup with 12:32 left put his team in front 47-37.

Georgia's margin remained in the 10- to 12-point range until the final minutes, when the game's final basket, another bucket by Gaines, gave the Bulldogs their winning score.

Team / Individual Notes

All five of Donte' Williams' blocks were in the first half...He was one shy of a career best... The Bulldogs matched a season-high 55% from the field and set a season high on defense, limiting ASU to just 33 percent shooting from the field... Georgia outscored the Mountaineers 40-14 in the paint, partially a by-product of its 36-31 edge in rebounding...ASU shot just 30 percent in the second half, including 0-for-8 from 3-point range.

2013-14 Game Summaries

Georgia 87, Chattanooga 56
Dec. 2, 2013 - Athens, Ga.

Game Summary

Nemi Djurisic scored all 14 of his points in the first half, when Georgia established its dominance over Chattanooga in posting their most complete performance of the young season.

Djurisic led three double-figure scorers and 13 scorers in all for the Bulldogs, who shot over 50 percent for the fourth time in their past five games.

Georgia needed less than seven minutes to get its lead into double figures. A Djurisic layup at the 13:14, assisted by Kenny Gaines, did the deed at 17-6. The Mocs, meanwhile, didn't reach double digits themselves until the 11:24 mark of the first half.

Donte' Williams' jumper with 8:38 remaining in the half pushed the Georgia margin over 20 for the first time at 34-13. The Bulldogs then closed the half on a 13-4 run to remove all doubt in the outcome of the contest.

With reserves occupying the court for much of the second half, Georgia stretched its lead further. The margin reached its largest of the game at 54-17 on a foul shot by Marcus Thornton with 17:08 left. It never shrank to lower than 26 points for the game's remainder.

Team / Individual Notes

Georgia's 31-point victory margin was its largest in three years, going back to an 85-38 win over High Point in December of 2010...For the first time this season, Georgia led from start to finish...The Mocs had just completed a marathon, 9-day, 5-game road trip before coming to Athens. Because of metro Atlanta traffic problems, they arrived at Stegeman Coliseum just 45 minutes prior to tipoff...Charles Mann, a starter at point guard for the Bulldogs, sat out the final 29 minutes of the game with a sore knee.

Georgia 84, Lipscomb 75
Dec. 14, 2013 - Athens, Ga.

Game Summary

Brandon Morris scored a career-best 17 points that included key second-half plays which enabled Georgia to hold off a pesky Lipscomb team and post the team's third straight victory.

Morris began the game at point guard in his first starting assignment of the season. He ended up at various places on the court and scored from all of them. Most prominent at the point was lightly-used walk-on Taylor Echols, who had a career-best day himself.

The Bulldogs encountered trouble negotiating Lipscomb's 2-3 zone defense at the outset. They trailed for nearly a quarter of the game before back-to-back 3-pointers by Nemi Djurisic drew Georgia even at 16 with 11:52 left. Freshman Juwan Parker then gave the Bulldogs the lead for keeps with a trey on their next possession.

Georgia, which shot 50 percent in building a 40-27 halftime lead, maintained its hot shooting in the second period. Already leading by 10, the Bulldogs reeled off an 11-3 run to break the game open. An alley-oop dunk from Echols to Donte' Williams with 12:47 left put Georgia ahead 56-38.

However, that's when Lipscomb got going.

The Bisons proceeded to score on their next eight possessions in a span that covered nearly five minutes. Consecutive treys by Martin Smith, the latter with 7:53 left, pulled Lipscomb within 63-59 and cast the outcome in serious doubt.

Morris asserted himself with three scores and a steal in the final minutes. He followed his only 3-pointer of the day with a steal and dunk with 2:01 left, restoring Georgia's lead back into double digits at 78-67.

Team / Individual Notes

Charles Mann sat out this game with a sore knee, an injury incurred 12 days before in the App. State game...Echols has now played 38 minutes in Georgia's past two games after playing no more than nine minutes in any previous game... Georgia shot 68 percent in the second half... Georgia's 23 assists were its most since a 1/15/11 game at Ole Miss (26 assists).

Georgia 58, Gardner-Webb 49
Dec. 19, 2013 - Athens, Ga.

Game Summary

Juwan Parker responded to his first collegiate starting assignment with team-high totals in scoring and rebounding. As it turned out, his team needed virtually every bit, as the Bulldogs overcame sluggish play to outlast a pesky Gardner-Webb group.

Georgia, which never seemed to find its offensive rhythm, won this game on the strength of its defense and rebounding. The Bulldogs limited Gardner-Webb -- which shot 54 percent in a losing effort at Duke three nights before -- to just 31 percent overall, 26 percent from 3-point range. They outrebounded their guests by a season-high 46-27 margin.

Two times in the second half, Marcus Thornton gave Georgia double-digits leads. The first time came at 24-14 on a free throw just over one minute into the final period. The latter time was on a dunk that boosted the score to 34-24 at the 12:30 mark.

Gardner-Webb, however, scrapped back into contention with a 13-4 run that covered the ensuing six minutes. Tyler Strange connected on a 3-pointer with 7:18 left that brought GW back within 38-34. Then, after the teams traded empty trips, Naji Hibbert converted a 3-point play with 6:32 left that narrowed the margin further.

The visiting Bulldogs had one possession to take the lead but missed two shots. Charles Mann scored with 5:13 left to restore a 40-37 margin, and Georgia proceeded to score five more unanswered points, capped by Parker's 3-point play at the 4:22 mark.

Team / Individual Notes

2013-14 Game Summaries

Georgia 65, Western Carolina 63
Dec. 21, 2013 - Athens, Ga.

Game Summary

Two foul shots by Charles Mann with 2.5 seconds left completed a successful comeback by Georgia, which appeared in serious trouble in the final minutes against a determined Western Carolina squad.

Indeed, the Catamounts broke away from Georgia in the early moments of the second half and kept control of this game. A high-arching jumper by leading scorer Trey Sumler (21 pts.) with 9:01 left got Western its first double-figure lead at 52-42. Nearly two minutes later, a 3-pointer from Brandon Boggs restored the 10-point margin at 57-47.

When Boggs converted the second of two free throws with 5:44 left, giving the Catamounts a 58-50 margin, things looked bleak for the home team.

Georgia, however, responded by scoring 11 straight points over the next 3 1/2 minutes. The Bulldogs pulled even at 58 on a lightning-quick fast break, started by Kenny Gaines, who rebounded, sprinted and fed Mann, who found Donte' Williams for a slam dunk.

The Bulldogs then forced a Western Carolina turnover, which led to a long 3-pointer from Nemi Djurisic with 50 seconds left that put Georgia in control. The Catamounts answered with a 3-point play from Tom Tankelewicz with just 20 ticks left. Mann then drove the lane and was fouled by Sumler with 2.5 seconds left, yielding the two winning foul shots.

Team / Individual Notes

Irony of ironies...Mann, who had strugged mightily at the line on this day, was instructed by coach Mark Fox to miss his second free throw with 2.5 seconds left....Alas, he made it and gave WCU an organized chance at a winning shot, which missed when Tankelewicz misfired from 35 feet at the buzzer...Gaines' three 3-pointers were a career high.

#21 Colorado 84, Georgia 70
Dec. 28, 2013 - Boulder, Colo.

Game Summary

Colorado got double-figure scoring from all five starters, asserted itself early and kept Georgia at bay throughout this intersectional contest.

The Bulldogs shot 50 percent and produced four double-digit scorers themselves in playing their first true road game of the season. Still, it seemed there was little they could do to slow the Buffaloes' stampede.

Six of Colorado's first eight field goals came from beyond the 3-point arc. The first three came from forward Xavier Johnson, whose third trey with 15:55 left gave the Buffs an 11-6 lead.

Still, Georgia managed to keep within a single possession until a surge by Colorado late in the first half put the the Bulldogs in peril. Leading 28-20, the Buffs rattled off eight consecutive points, the latter deuce on a fast-break layup by Askia Booker with 5:28 left. The Colorado lead eventually reached its largest of 18 points on two first-half occasions, lastly at 44-26 on a Wesley Gordon layup at the 3:39 mark.

Georgia mustered one mild rally in the second half. Trailing 57-44, the Bulldogs switched to a 2-3 zone defense that produced three straight empty possessions by Colorado. A putback dunk by Donte' Williams preceded a long 3-pointer by Brandon Morris with 10:17 left, bringing Georgia within 57-49. CU responded with seven straight points and, in essence, secured its victory.

Team / Individual Notes

This marked the beginning of the fifth home-and-home series between these two programs... Colorado became the first UGA opponent since 1995 to shoot 100 percent from the free-throw line (min. 10 attempts).

George Washington 73, Georgia 55
Jan. 3, 2014 - Washington, D.C.

Game Summary

George Washington capitalized on Georgia's wayward shooting and mistake-prone offense to post a convincing win in each team's non-conference finale.

The Colonials, who led by as many as eight points in the first half, surged ahead early in the final period. Six straight points -- four from top scorer Kethan Savage, two more from Patricio Garino -- pushed the GW lead into double figures for the first time at 36-25 with 17:43 left.

The margin remained in the eight- to 11-point range for the next nine minutes. A 7-0 run, capped by a Maurice Creek 3-pointer at the 6:01 mark, put the game out of reach at 59-41.

The outcome overshadowed a productive effort by Georgia's Cameron Forte, who made all seven of his field-goal attempts and contributed eight rebounds, all in just 13 minutes of action. His play as the second half waned generally kept the Bulldogs afloat.

Despite shooting just 36 percent in the first half, Georgia stayed within arm's length of GW. The Colonials broke out to an 18-10 lead, only to see the Bulldogs rally back within a single possession. Marcus Thornton's turnaround jumper with 4:26 left got Georgia back within 22-19.

The Bulldogs were unable to get any closer thereafter.

Team / Individual Notes

The game completed a home-and-home series that started last season in Athens...The Bulldogs had season-low numbers in assists and 3-pointers made...Georgia shot 59 percent in the second half.
