

Mizzou Men's Basketball Post-Game Notes vs. Arkansas

Mizzou Arena - Columbia, Mo.

Final Score: Mizzou 79, No. 25 Arkansas 76

GAME NOTES

- Mizzou snapped Arkansas' five game winning streak in the rivalry, though Arkansas leads the all-time series over Mizzou, 33-27.
- The Tigers lead the Razorbacks 17-12 in games played in Columbia.
- Mizzou's victory was their third against a ranked opponent in the 2022-23 season, improving their record to 3-2 in such games.
- The win gives the Tigers their first win against a ranked Arkansas team since Dec. 7, 1991.
- The Tigers also improve to 3-0 at home in SEC games.
- The Tigers earned their second win of the season while trailing by double digits with five minutes remaining (first such win came against Wichita State on Nov. 29).
- Graduate guard DeAndre Gholston's free throw at 6:43 in the second half was the 1,000th point in his college career. He is the sixth player on the roster to eclipse 1,000 points, more than any other Division I team.
- Gholston posted his sixth double-digit scoring outing in eight games off the bench this campaign with 16 points.
- The bench contributed 48 points, marking the unit's season high and the fourth game this season with at least 40 points. It is also the highest total Mizzou's bench has scored since the reserves dropped 53 against Chicago State on Dec. 30, 2019.
- Mizzou drew 33 fouls with four Razorbacks fouling out. The total counts as the most Arkansas has committed this year and the most the Razorbacks have racked up since 2010.
- Mizzou amassed 30 made free throws on 40 attempts, both season highs and the most since the Tigers shot 34-of-44 against Arkansas in 2020.
- Mizzou forced Arkansas into 21 turnovers, while surrendering just 12 of their own. The Tigers have now won or tied the TO battle in 17-of-18 games this season.
- Arkansas' 21 turnovers are the most the team has committed in a game this season and the most the Razorbacks have surrendered since November 2019.
- The Tigers scored 31 points off turnovers, marking their most in SEC action.
- Mizzou logged 13 steals, the most an opposing team has collected against the Razorbacks this season.
- For a seventh-consecutive contest, senior forward Kobe Brown exceeded 10 points, logging a team-high 17 points. He has led the team in points in the last four games.
- Mohamed Diarra set career highs with five points, 10 minutes and 2-of-4 shooting from the charity stripe.
