Summary

We made it almost back to Boulder today. Due to rain and a very low cloud deck in the Front Range, we were forced to land at Rocky Mountain Metro (KBJC). Tomorrow morning's weather looks acceptable for repositioning to Boulder, where we can begin pumping and cooling.

Concerns

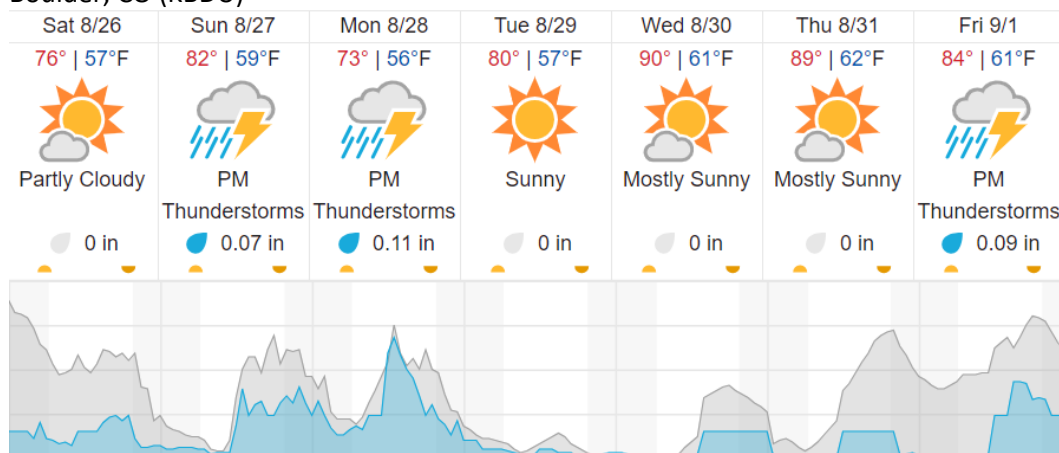

None.

Comments

Vince and Jeff did a great job planning and replanning our transit down from Alaska in light of some challenging weather scenarios. Jeff rotates out tomorrow, to be replaced by Cullen. Thanks for all the hard work Jeff!
