

10 September 2026

Dear Dr. Sellers,

I am writing to inform you that your book, Indigenous Women's Reproductive Traditions: Reclaiming Sovereignty Through 500 Years of Colonization, was nominated for the 2025 Beatrice Medicine Award for Scholarship in American Indian Studies. This award is administered by the Association for the Study of American Indian Literatures (ASAIL) and sponsored by the Charles Redd Center for Western Studies at Brigham Young University.

I hope you feel honored to have been nominated for this award and that you stay engaged with the Association for the Study of American Indian Literatures (ASAIL). You can learn more about ASAIL—including membership, conferences, and the organization's journal SAIL—on the organization's website, <https://www.asail.org/>.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read 'Matthew Herman'.

Matthew Herman

2025 ASAIL Award Committee Chair, Beatrice Medicine Award for Scholarship in American Indian Studies: Monograph Category