

NORTHWESTERN MEN'S BASKETBALL » IN-GAME NOTES

March 9, 2019 • vs. Purdue • Game Thirty-One

TEAM NOTES

- Northwestern was hot from deep in the first half, shooting 5-of-10 from three excluding Law's halfcourt heave as time expired.
 - The Wildcats hit 11 triples, the most since hitting 13, a season high, against Chicago State on Dec. 17, 2018.
- Northwestern honored the careers of Ryan Taylor, Vic Law, Charlie Hall, Dererk Pardon, Jordan Ash and Aaron Falzon pregame.
- Northwestern will be the No. 14 seed in the Big Ten Tournament and play the No. 11 seed on Wednesday, March 13 at the United Center.
- Northwestern used an 8-0 with 9:09 left in the second half to cut the lead to seven, capped off by an A.J. Turner triple.
- The Wildcats shot a perfect 8-8 from the FT line, the first time this season they have been perfect from the charity stripe.
- The Wildcats held Purdue to 70 points on the afternoon, six points lower than their scoring average of 76. It was the 20th time this season the NU defense has held an opponent to lower than their season average.
- The Northwestern three-point defense was as advertised, holding the Boilermakers to a 29% mark from deep, which is right in line with the Wildcats eight-best mark in the country of 28.9%. The Boilermakers were averaging 37% from three before
