

Kayak Trip log PLA 03 08 June – 15 June

Since the beginning, weather looked more than stable for this days. We had our mandatory briefings the morning after we started, gear delivered at the same time and our first outing to see how things will be the next days... all in the same morning!

We checked the weather and we head into the arctic as a very solid group. All of us working as a team, paddling in pairs, in silence, close to the heart of Spitzbergen. Feeling in a very special way the sounds of the chating little oaks, the diving terns around us, the persecution of the kittiwakes, the wistle of the guillemots and the curiosity of many harbour seal that came to us to check us from every angle from the ocean.

We paddled around St Jonsfjord, Lilliehookbreen, Ytre Norskoya and Fuglesongen. Remote places, in very different conditions. We experienced the swell, the tranquility of the sheltered bays, the ice flows cracking around us, the glaciar front calving in the distance, the lak of wind and the blowing gusts in the corner of Ytre Norskoya in the far north west.

The most important thing? We came as unknown people and we leave the ship as friends. With a beautiful story that will link us for ever.

See you in ANtractica?! Yes!
