WINTHROP NOTES

Winthrop was voted 7th in the Big South Conference preseason polls.

The Eagles return the team's top two scorers from the 2018-19 season: Kem Nwabudu and Jah'Che Whitfield.

Kem Nwabudu and Miquela Santoro both earned conference honors for the 2018-19 season. Nwabudu was voted to the Big South All-Freshman Team and Santoro was named to the Big South All-Academic Team.

CHASING 500

Junior Anika Riley is currently ranked 16th in the nation, averaging 12.5 rebounds per game (11-18-19). She has 439 career rebounds, just 61 shy of the 500 milestone.

SISTER-SISTER

Winthrop has two sets of sisters on its roster: Sydney and Sierra Hunter and Jah'Che Whitfield and Destinee Jamison-Whitfield. There are 20 other pairs of sisters on Division I women's basketball teams.

UNDERCLASSMEN

There are 11 NCAA Division 1 rosters with nine or more underclassmen. Winthrop and Mercer are tied at the top with 11 (6 frosh, 5 sophomores).

Head Coach Lynette Woodard

Lynette Woodard, a two-time U.S. Olympian, a four-time All-American, the all-time Division I women's scoring leader, a 10-time Hall of Fame inductee, and the first woman to play for the world-renowned Harlem Globetrotters is beginning her third full season as head coach of the Winthrop women's basketball program.

In her second full season the Eagles sported a young and inexperienced roster but the team improved by seven wins from the 2017-18 season. The team improved offensively and allowed eight fewer points per game in 2018-19. The team also earned four more league wins than the previous season.

A native of Wichita, KS, Woodard played college basketball for the Kansas Lady Jayhawks and noted head coach Marian Washington. During her four-year career, Woodard scored 3,649 points and helped lead KU to three straight Big Eight championships while breaking 24 school records. She was voted to the Kodak All-American team all four years, was the 1981 Wade Trophy winner which goes to the college player of the year, and was a GTE Academic All-America selection. Woodard graduated from Kansas in 1981 with a degree in speech communications.

Woodard, who is considered a pioneer in women's basketball, was inducted into the Kansas Hall of Fame in 1990, the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame in 2002 and 2004, the Globetrotter Hall of Fame in 2004, and the Women's Basketball Hall of Fame in 2005.

While still in college Woodard began playing in international tournaments, traveling to the Soviet Union in 1979, where she helped the U.S. women's team win a gold medal in the World University Games. In 1980 Woodard earned a place on the U.S. Olympic women's basketball team. This achievement was dimmed, however, when the United States boycotted the Moscow Olympic Games. She was also part of the U.S. team that captured the gold in the 1983 Pan Am Games in Caracas, Venezuela.

When Woodard graduated from Kansas, she played two years in the Italian Women's Professional League before returning to the U.S. in 1983 and made the most of her second Olympic opportunity when she captained the 1984 U.S. Olympic team to the gold medal at the Los Angeles Games.

After winning the gold, Woodard had a chance to make a childhood dream come true when she tried out for the Harlem Globetrotters. She was among 10 women who competed for a chance to play with the Globetrotters and made history when she became the first female to join the famous team of basketball ambassadors in 1985.

In 1987 Woodard decided to leave the Globetrotters and return to professional play abroad. She played two more seasons in Italy, helping her team to the Italian league championships in 1989, and then went to Japan, where she played for the Daina Securities team from 1990 to 1993, winning the division championship in 1992.

She returned to the U.S. and worked for a time for the New York Stock Exchange before taking the position of director of athletics for the Kansas City, KS school system for two years until 1997 when she came out of retirement to play in the newly formed Women's National Basketball Association. She played one year for the Cleveland Rockers and one year for the Detroit Shock before officially retiring as a player.

In 1999, she returned to KU as an assistant coach under Coach Washington where she served for four seasons alongside Cook. When Washington retired for health reasons in 2003, Woodard served as interim head coach in 2003-2004. In 2006, Kansas Governor Kathleen Sebelius appointed her to serve as co-chair of her new Governor's Council on Fitness.
