PRESS RELEASE - FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
January 8, 2020

Los Angeles based Persp3ctive has announced that their VR music production software, ControlRoom, will be launching on Steam VR with support for Oculus Rift and HTC Vive on January 16th. ControlRoom VR is currently available on the Oculus Store for Rift/S and available for Oculus Quest directly from Persp3ctive.

ControlRoom is a revolutionary new way to incorporate VR into the music production process. By interfacing with existing music production software, ControlRoom allows musicians, producers, and engineers to mix and bring life into their tracks using the power of gestural control, 3D interfaces, and visualization– enhancing their existing software tools with the power of immersive technology..

ControlRoom VR officially supports Ableton Live and Avid Pro Tools, with limited support for many other DAWs (digital audio workstation). It is free to use as a MIDI and DAW controller, and with the purchase of Persp3ctive's ControlRoom Channel and Master plugins, users can take advantage of Persp3ctive's powerful audio processing and intuitive VR interfaces like the Spatial Mixer and more. The plugins are currently available for $49 from Persp3ctive.

ControlRoom VR now also works in tandem with Persp3ctive's latest offering, ControlRoom Mobile, an AR powered gestural MIDI controller for iOS and Android. Allowing users to collaborate with gestural control both in and out of VR.

ControlRoom is a revolutionary new tool that allows musicians to step away from their computers to work faster and more creatively by combining the benefits of working in an immersive environment with industry standard tools.

Persp3ctive is dedicated to building next generation creative tools that utilize the power of AR and VR. ControlRoom was a finalist in the 2019 SXSW Innovation Awards.
