

Giving BACK

The PharmaVOICE 100 honorees share a sincere desire to pay it forward. Philanthropy is a big part of what makes our inspired leaders tick. They generously give of their time and resources.

Nithyanandhan Ananthkrishnan
Algorics

SMILE is managed by a group of young professionals working in various backgrounds. We believe that meaningful and quality education is one of the important ingredients in the development of children.

Bill Byrom
ICON

I support and volunteer on a number of charitable projects in my home town of Nottingham, England, including The Arches Project, a local charity providing food, furniture, clothing, language classes, and other support to families in the area.

Judy Capano
Calcium

Promise Project, which provides neuro-physiology testing evaluation and advocacy for underprivileged kids with learning disabilities.

Laurie Cooke
Healthcare Businesswomen's Association

I support my Unitarian Universalist church, Planned Parenthood, and several local animal rescue organizations.

GARRISON FAMILY FUND

Dr. Lou Garrison
University of Washington
My wife and I have helped to establish the Garrison Family Fund for Global Health Economics Education, Louis Sr. and the Marilyn Garrison Endowed Prized in Health Policy and Economics.

William Hinshaw
Novartis Pharmaceuticals

I support anything related to cancer patients: Cancer Support Community, The Life Raft Group, Hot for Hope, Leukemia & Lymphoma Society, and many more.

Eva Jack
Mersana Therapeutics

Canine Companions for Independence (CCI). I am a volunteer puppy raiser.

Stacy Joseph-Reese
Teva Pharmaceuticals

The charities that are most dear to me are those that provide support for children, for example Save the Children, Make a Wish, and Adopt a Family.

Dr. Greg Koski
ACRES

I am passionate about protecting our planet and wild places through the Sierra Club and Wilderness Guardians, and helping children in need with Plan International.

Dr. Evan Demestihis
The Medical Affairs Company

Boy Scouts of America provides a wonderful opportunity for boys to discover more about themselves and learn what it takes to be successful in life and become good, contributing citizens.

Paulo Moreira
EMD Serono

I support The Rescue Mission — to feed the hungry — because nobody should go hungry and St. Jude Children's Research Hospital.

David Querry
Navicor

I primarily support cancer advocacy organizations. I don't have a single one, preferring to spread my expertise across several — LRF, LLS, Cancer Support Community, Komen, etc.

Ted White
Aqua Pharmaceuticals

Andy Talley National Bone Marrow Foundation of which I am an active board member. I also support Camp Discovery, kids living with skin disorders.

(c) PharmaLinx LLC. Rights do not include promotional use. For distribution or printing rights, contact mw@pharmavoice.com