Industry at Large ABBVIE IRELAND TAKES EFFORTS TO REDUCE CARBON FOOTPRINT

Peter Moran, Sligo energy lead, meets with energy management stakeholders at the Sligo site. The company’s efforts saved roughly 4,066,000 pounds of CO2 annually, which is the equivalent of taking more than 385 cars off the road for one year.

AbbVie’s facility in Sligo, Ireland, was the first of the company’s sites to address how to save energy and reduce its carbon footprint by implementing

ISO 50001 standards for improving energy management systems. The program set the objective of delivering an annual energy savings of an estimated 26% of the overall energy cost, while delivering a reduction of 3,590 metric tons of CO2 through sustainable development.

AbbVie’s facility in Ireland received in September the International Energy Award from the Association of Energy Engineers (AEE).
