

Coming ATTRACTIONS

THE HEALTHCARE BUSINESSWOMEN'S ASSOCIATION, which encompasses a growing community of more than 20,000 women and men throughout the global healthcare arena, is bringing world-renowned speakers and advanced network-building opportunities together while giving attendees a unique experience to explore the Art and Science of Leadership at its annual conference November 13-15, in Boston. Art and Science are at two ends of a philosophical spectrum when applied to leadership. At the art end of the spectrum there are characteristics such as emotion, empathy, and personal relationships. At the science end, there is protocol, efficiency, and measurable performance. In the middle there is the HBA, which during its two-day conference will provide the creative insights and analytical tools that attendees need to achieve the balance they need to be successful in their professional and personal lives.

More than 800 high-performing women from all sectors of healthcare will convene in Boston to refresh and broaden their leadership perspectives.

Early-bird registration ends Sept. 27, 2013.
