diminish our enjoyment of the island.

My wife and I bought a building lot on Emerald Isle on North Carolina's outer banks approximately twenty-five years ago. We hope to build a home and retire there within the next couple of years. The lot is located in the middle of the western side of the island approximately 1.000 feet from the ocean side of the island. The lot has an approximate elevation increased storm surge, the increased frequency and severity of storms, and increased erosion resulting from climate change. We may not have bought substantial additional cost to account for rising ocean levels, the resulting erosion, increased storm frequency and severity, and storm surge caused by

Emerald Isle regularly – at least twice a year – and we enjoy the aesthetic to Emerald Isle in 2005. However, my wife and I are concerned about value of the island's vegetation and its associated wildlife. We plan to return Emerald Isle's vegetation. The increased frequency and severity in storms vegetation and will damage the island's aesthetic value. This damage will and storm surge caused by climate change will adversely affect the trees and

Although we have not yet built a home, my wife and I still visit

If we decide to build, we will have to design and build our home at the lot if, twenty-five years ago, we had known the dangers of climate change.

My wife and I are concerned about the rising ocean levels,
