QUOTES

The Leadership Conference has wonderful training that will help you with the practical aspects of running a chapter or committee. However, the best part of the leadership conference is the spirit that you feel and the people that you meet. You will leave inspired and uplifted and ready to meet life's challenges.

Ginny Isaacson, JRCLS International Chair

WHAT MOVES ME to attend the JRCLS Annual Leadership Conference for the fifth consecutive year? Raise two flags for the Law Society: Providing pro bono legal services to members and non-members alike and defending religious freedom!

Aroldo Cavalcante, JRCLS Area Director, South America

It's a pleasure coming to the annual JRCLS leadership conference, I am always uplifted, motivated and come away with an insight about how to be a better lawyer.

Cynthia Lange, JRCLS Vice-Chair, Finance Committee

QUOTES

Leadership Conference energizes me to continue to combine my passions for practicing my values and faith while practicing law and empowering women in law. It is a face to face connection for those, like me, who do not live in areas with lots of JRCLS members.

Angel Zimmerman, Chair, JRCLS Women in Law Committee

I love to come to the annual Leadership Conference to rub shoulders with my friends and colleagues in the Law Society, to hear the latest on Church legal issues worldwide, and to meet international leaders in the JRCLS all over the world. It is truly a wonder to see the Society grow and make a difference around the globe. The stories and personal experiences and speakers are unforgettable. Also, the training tips are usually insightful to chapter leaders and help build enthusiasm for the work. Leaders also have a chance to contribute the ideas that work for them.

Paul Hoffman, Vice-Chair, JRCLS Chapter Relations Council

I love to attend the annual leadership meeting because it gives me the opportunity to participate in building the kingdom and to make a difference. I also enjoy the fellowship of likeminded attorneys from around the world.

David Armstrong, JRCLS Leadership Development Team

I just come for the t-shirt and the food. Sure, it's nice to hear from area legal counsel, see old friends, sing hymns at sunrise in the mountains, discuss common challenges with peers, and celebrate the past year's successes. But I really just come for the shirt and the food.

Jonathan Wardle, JRCLS Area Director—US Southeast & Chapter Chair

Tom Pixton, JRCLS Area Director, US Northwest

QUOTES

For me the best part of Leadership Conference is getting back home with profound gratitude and renewed enthusiasm about practicing Law in my own Country, every day I wake up knowing I'm part of something greater than me.

Samuel Morales, JRCLS Area Director, Mexico

The JRCLS Annual Leadership Conference offers what I consider an all-inclusive package: it is a wonderful opportunity to get up to speed with the latest developments in the law society, hear inspiring keynotes, and rub elbows with law students and legal professionals from around the world. Last but not least, Aspen Grove is breathtaking in the fall.

Randa Vieira, JRLCS, Leadership Development Team

I personally love to come to JRCLS Leadership Training (i) to be enriched by the “best practices” that are shared by others in the rendering of selfless pro bono legal services to the needy, or the advancement of religious freedom initiatives, (ii) to become rejuvenated in my commitment to serve more faithfully those for whom I have been given certain responsibilities; and (iii) to be strengthened and inspired by associating with those who exemplify the vision of the JRCLS, by word and example.

Greg Clark, JRCLS Vice-Chair, Chapter Relations Council
