Polypouch has just announced a new range of high-quality stock spout pouches on their site. The spout pouches are currently available in three colours: clear, white and gold. As well as the new spout pouch, you can also purchase printed and custom size bespoke pouches too. You can contact Polypouch for more information about these pouches.

The spout bags come in a range of sizes from 100ml, 150ml, 250ml, to 400ml, 500ml and even 1000ml. According to Polypouch, the spout pouches are an – ‘innovative liquid packaging solution’ and it is also one of the more popular types of flexible packaging in the food and drink industry.

Polypouch believes that manufacturers will truly benefit from this packaging as it is much more versatile and customisable compared to other types of plastic packaging. If your brand or company specialises in soft drinks, baby food or smoothies, this spout pouch packaging is the perfect solution for you, and it will set you apart from the competition.

The best uses for Spout pouches:

Of course, the most popular use for the spout pouch is for juice drinks, which is at the top of the list. Although, the spout pouches have become popular in other industries too and recently they have become beneficial for food manufacturers when it comes to packaging children’s food, in particular baby food, such as vegetable puree and juices. The spout pouches are so easy to use because of the spouts, as it prevents spillage for the user, and it makes it very quick and easy to fill.

Spout pouches are not just easy to use, they are also beneficial for homeowners who like to store food products for an extended period of time. The spout pouch keeps the food fresher for longer, and it can be used on food items such as soup, cocktail mixes and even frozen foods.

Spout packaging is so versatile it is not just useful in the food and drink industry, but also with cosmetic products. The spout pouches and bags are an excellent option for products like face masks, and even various home cleaning products and detergents.

The advantages of spout packaging:

Unlike many packaging options out there today, Polypouch have created the spout packaging which comes with many advantages. The idea of the spout ensures minimal food waste; about 99.5% can be used if the product is stored in a spout pouch.

Spout pouches are convenient and are great for that on-the-go person who can carry the product around wherever they go. They are also the most economical and eco-friendly option compared to other food packaging options.

Sample packaging is another advantage of the spout pouches due to their size and versatility for distributing pastes or liquid samples of brands. Your brand will stand out from all the rest with a spout pouch.
