STEPS INTO 2026 & PARTNERSHIPS 31

FROM OUR FOUNDER

A note from Dr. Ana Nogales

In 2025, Casa de la Familia continued its mission of providing compassionate, culturally responsive mental health care to individuals and families affected by trauma. Every day, our clinicians, advocates, and staff walk alongside survivors of domestic violence, sexual assault, crime-related trauma, and other life challenges, helping them find healing, stability, and hope.

This year, we expanded access to our counseling services, reaching more individuals and families than in previous years. Through individual therapy, family counseling, and supportive services, our team provided trauma-informed care designed to help survivors process their experiences and rebuild their lives. Each person who comes to Casa de la Familia carries a unique story, and we remain deeply committed to honoring those stories with dignity, respect, and clinical excellence.

Over the past 30 years, we have witnessed important progress in making mental health care more accessible. The expansion of telehealth has allowed us to reach individuals and families who may not otherwise have access to care due to distance, transportation, or scheduling challenges. At the same time, we recognize that many barriers still exist. As an organization, we remain committed to reducing stigma around mental health, expanding affordable services, and providing culturally and linguistically relevant care so that more members of our community feel safe seeking support.

We also strengthened the range of services available to our patients. The launch of our Enhanced Care Management (ECM) Program allows us to provide more coordinated support that addresses the interconnected needs of mental health, physical health, and overall well-being. In addition, our Immigration Psychological Evaluation program expanded to serve individuals across multiple states, helping ensure that vulnerable families seeking safety have access to the psychological documentation often critical to their legal cases.

Looking ahead, we are excited to continue expanding our impact. In 2026, the opening of our East Los Angeles office will allow Casa de la Familia to serve even more individuals and families throughout Los Angeles County, bringing trauma-informed mental health care closer to communities that need it most.

Beyond clinical services, we also created opportunities for connection and support throughout the year. Events such as Puertas Abiertas and A La Salud brought together families, partners, and service providers to share resources and strengthen community relationships. We were also proud to host Casa Boutique, offering families in need a moment of dignity and joy through a free shopping experience. One of the most meaningful milestones of the year was our first fundraising gala, Colores de Vida, which united supporters, partners, and advocates who share our vision of a future where survivors of trauma have access to the mental health care they deserve.

Still, there is so much more we wish we could accomplish. Every day, individuals call us seeking emotional support in moments of crisis. Many families are living with the deep effects of trauma and the uncertainty that comes with it. They deserve access to compassionate mental health care, and with your support, we can reach even more people in need.

We invite you to continue standing with Casa de la Familia so that together we can expand access to healing, hope, and dignity for those who need it most.

With gratitude,
Dr. Ana Nogales

The Struggles Within the Latino Community in California

At Casa de la Familia, we are committed to providing culturally responsive mental healthcare to Latino people and families affected by violence, abuse, and displacement within Southern California.

These are some of the struggles latino community face in the U.S.

Limited Access to Mental Health Services

Members of the latino community struggle to access mental health care due to stigma, cost, lack of insurance, and a shortage of bilingual, culturally sensitive clinicians.

Migration-Related Trauma

Immigrants and asylum seekers often arrive with trauma from violence, displacement, or family separation. These experiences are intensified by ongoing fears of deportation and uncertainty about legal status.

Language and Cultural Barriers

Many services lack Spanish-speaking staff or fail to consider cultural values and traits. Without proper interpretation or cultural understanding, care becomes less effective and less accessible.

Economic and Educational Inequities

Limited access to higher education and generational wealth reinforces cycles of poverty and reduces long-term opportunities for latino families and individuals.

Violence and Discrimination

Latino communities face high exposure to domestic and community violence. Systemic racism, fear of law enforcement, and distrust in institutions often prevent survivors from reporting abuse or accessing services.

Source: Findling MG, Bleich SN, Casey LS, et al. Discrimination in the United States: Experiences of Latinos. Health Serv Res. 2019;54 Suppl 2 (Suppl 2):1409-1418. doi:10.1111/1475-6773.13216

I remember my first day of therapy as if it were yesterday. Therapy helped me see my life from perspectives I never imagined before. I began coming to therapy at one of the lowest points in my life, without a job and unsure how I would support myself and my children. Through Casa de la Familia's services, I found the courage and empowerment I needed to secure employment and access vital resources. Many people believe they don't have a voice or that no one will believe them, but that isn't true. I found my voice at Casa de la Familia, and I will always be grateful for the guidance and support the agency has provided me during such a critical time in my life.

Weekly, these women reclaim parts of themselves that were once silenced in a space where they are believed, respected, and speak without fear. In a world that often dismisses their pain, this group is a reminder that they matter.”

"The sexual assault support group provides a safe space for survivors, helping them find understanding and healing. One mother whose daughter was also a victim initially felt overwhelmed by her daughter's behavioral changes and the mother's guilt. Through the group, she gained insights into trauma, strategies for self-care, and tools to rebuild her relationship with her daughter. Connecting with other mothers helped her transform isolation into resilience, creating a pathway to hope and healing."
