

Artist Statement

Inconnu;

Artisan craft on hand of a masterpiece by an artist painting with a passion of movement to the arts, with a fine quality work behind a deeper purpose that rests in the arts...

From seeing the world through the perspective of the arts, painting something with the freedom to make something unique and spontaneous, while at the same time something with a deep meaning behind it, just as you see a painting with something coming from the drive of painting to the deep with inspiration behind the entire composition, while some paintings might be in different movements, just to in-print a new composition with the best movement vehicle to make the composition deeply structured with the touch of the painting as a complete artwork of the composition; right down to the joy of the pleasing drive of composing something out of the ordinary, something original, is the statement I move for; movement with a freedom of passion and a straight to the last brush stroke of purpose behind it.

The sign behind my artistic perception that explores the deepness of the human nature and how it interacts with the human condition in society, is to see how I capture the interaction between the arts and how holding a painting is like a window to what moves you, just to capture something with an essence behind the name, with a straight perspective behind it, down to the originality of wanting to paint something that opens a new composition, for a new perspective to see the world.

In my art you will find the deepness behind the name, as the paintings have Articulations for the viewer to see the painting and to let the movement speak by itself, like Symbols in a map, just to navigate between all the paintings, for you to see hidden meanings and messages, like an universal language in the arts coming from my artistic point of view beyond of perception, like a Language to the eyes that see the details in the composition that can expand your point of view of the world and on the arts; to the point of knowing Abbreviations as they play with the structure of the literary language, to the edge of how a painting might evoke a Mind puzzle to one's own mind just to understand it deeply, is to see how the arts interact with the human nature and condition.

New movements ~ New Concepts

To fast forward in the evolution of art, to what is next in the world of art, from concepts coming from art history and how it can be the next movement if the art is explored in a natural way, to new movements coming from other movements put together to form a mixture of movements in a painting, or a complete new movement contrasted by other movements.

In some paintings I exercise the freedom to paint, making something unique and spontaneous, not planned or drafted, and on other paintings I plan something unique sharp down to the last feeling of passion in the last brush stroke that finishes the painting in a way that the buyer will find out what really got it to buy the painting.

Is not just to paint something, but to paint something deeper than myself, paintings not just for eye catching beauty, but something with feelings and passions, for the mind to understand, imagine a painting that brings something new to life, a new angle, a new perspective, a new point of view, something that could make your life better just by expanding how you see life, you'll find that art is the root of life and for life, and it can give a deeper meaning to your life in ways you'll never imagine, as you see my art and understand it, you'll find something unique in every painting, for I did it with a deeper reasons, passions, and purpose.

That is why when you buy a painting, you are not buying just the painting, you are also buying what is behind the painting, all that work that was put behind the painting down to the last brush stroke of passions and deep feeling behind the painting that encompasses something deep from life; like seeing another world behind the painting.

This is why if I paint is not just to paint something, but to paint something complete in all aspects of life, something that lets you reflect on something that you find in life priceless, is for every buyer to find on the long run, to see what really makes us human and what does not, as for art is what makes us human, but to express oneself in a cohesive way is to evolve as human, with a deep purpose that nothing can get in the way of that purpose, is like having one of my paintings something made with a strong purpose and virtue.
