DAGESTAN TUR IN AZERBAIJAN

(Capri cylindricornis)

Tur live at altitudes between 7,000’ and 10,000’. They are considered by many to be the cross between the wild sheep and mountain goats. This is one of the most prized species in mountain hunting and is a CITES III animal. Dagestan Tur hunting is considered to be one of the most difficult mountain hunts. East-Caucasian Tur is included both in Capra and OVIS Slams that’s why it is very important as a mountain trophy. This outfitter can accept groups from 1 to 4 hunters at the same time. The base camp is in a big house with hot and cold running water. You will rest there while the guides take care of your trophy and prepare for further transportation.
