Free Range Buffalo

Buffalo and limited plains game are hunted in some of the game reserves that form part of the APNR (Associated Private Nature Reserves). The APNR includes Timbavati, Klaserie, Balule and Umbabat Private game reserves. These game reserves have no fences with each other and are open to the Kruger National Park. They cover an area of more than 300 000 acres and have good populations of resident game, including the Big five. Hunting quotas are relatively small considering the quantity of game that occurs. Thus, hunting pressure on the game populations is extremely low. It is indeed a true pleasure and great privilege to hunt these magnificent game reserves.
