HUNT IN PAKISTAN

Pakistan is a large country. Its total area is 483,874 miles, thus, it is 3 times bigger than UK, 3X Italy, 10X Austria, 19X Switzerland, 26 times bigger than Belgium & 1/6th of the USA. It has some of the rarest sheep and goat species in the world such as the Blue Sheep, Kashmir Markhor, Astor & Sulaiman Markhor; the Punjab, Blandford & Afghan Urial; and the Himalayan & Sind Ibex. Hunts in the northern part of Pakistan could be challenging, whereas hunting in the southern regions, which offer moderate climate, do not require as much physical conditioning.

CITIES and other permit (s) may be required by U.S. Fish and Wildlife for endangered wildlife. No sale may be consummated until the necessary permit (s) have been obtained from the USFW Service.

WILD BOAR DRIVEN HUNT SAFARI

The Wild boar prefers area with thick vegetation. They are found in reed beds as well as scrub and forest areas and are often found living in the vicinity of larger cities of Pakistan. They are particularly fond of the areas around sugar plantations of the Punjab and are now consider a pest. Numbers in Sindh have declined, but it is not endangered and is still found in good numbers. They are regularly seen on the streets of Islamabad, despite government efforts to control their population. Our minimum bag limit is 05 (five) boars per person per hunt safari, however, since boars are reckoned as pests in Pakistan & their population is plentiful, there is no maximum limit set by our Government So our guests may hunt as many boars as they want and they are usually rewarded with a quantity which is far beyond their expected bag limit. As regards their quality, all boars are shot under exciting circumstances and often includes a high percentage of old tuskers. You'll be accompanied by our most experienced team of hunting guides, beaters and trained dogs, who are very well familiar with our chosen hunting grounds and always ensure that our hunters are positioned most appropriately to accomplish their guaranteed hunts. At times short walks to the individual shooting position have to be undertaken, however, in most cases the hunters are driven by cars or jeeps quite closer to their assigned shooting positions. This permits even the older hunters to participate easily.
