The majestic Red Stag is the most demanded trophy in this area and they are proud to say that they offer the unique "Monster" red stag. It's important to mention they hold the world's third largest population of Pere David's deer. This is the only place in the world where Pere David's deer can be hunted free range.

HUNT FOR RED STAG IN PATAGONIA

(Cervus Elaphus)

Red Stag was introduced into Argentina more than a hundred years ago, the first specimens where brought to the province of La Pampa, and subsequent imports also introduced this magnificent animal into the southern part of the country, Patagonia. Hunting red deer in Argentina is a truly unique experience, particularly in the region of Patagonia mostly characterized by very open and big ranges. The stags can be spotted from a long distance, and rutting season is usually very long (more than 60 days), providing ample chances to harvest a very nice trophy. In addition, you will find awesome free ranging Red Stag trophies in the hunting environment and this is the result of more than 20 years of hard work and strictness in the game management. So if you are looking for an unforgettable red stag hunting, this outfitter offers you an authentic and natural Patagonian hunting experience! Success rate is 95%.

HUNT FOR PERE DAVID'S DEER

(Elaphurus davidianus)

The Pere David's deer is a relatively big animal. An adult male weighs approximately 500 pounds and can reach up to four feet in height at the shoulders. In the summer, the animal's coat is reddish brown and grayish during the wintertime. Chinese call this species "sì bù xiàng" (四不象), which means "four different ways" in reference to: the antlers of a deer, the tail of a donkey, the neck of a camel, and the hoofs of an ox. In China they are commonly known as "milu", which means a deer that lives in swampy areas.

These animals tell an amazing story about how a species was saved from extinction and reintroduced to its natural habitat. At present the third largest population with approximately 250 animals, is located on this land which is in Neuquén province in Argentina. Here, the Pere David's deer has found the ideal habitat to develop magnificent antlers, being the only place in the world where the trophy can be hunted free range. The outfitter is proud of this fact and he is conscientious about the responsibility and the inestimable genetic and biological value of our population of Pere David's deer. Success rate is 90%.

GAME HUNTING IN PATAGONIA

In addition to the Majestic Red stag and the unique Pere David's deer, this outfitter offers more than 18 different species including Fallow deer, Axis deer, Feral Oxen, Mouflon sheep, Hybrid sheep, Somali Ram, Black Jacob's ram, Patagonian Dall, Patagonian Ram, Multihorned sheep, wild goat, Balearian Boc, Puma and Russian boar. This is some of the highest trophy quality you will ever find in Argentina, and the world. All trophies are awesome and guaranteed to make the record book. The hilly terrain and breathtaking views make this area exciting in every way. The captivating surroundings and the wilderness of the country provide the most demanding and experienced hunters with a lifetime hunting experience. Hunts can be conducted on horseback or 4WD vehicles, depending on the hunter's preference, horsemanship and physical ability. Final approach is done on foot. Hunters may expect to stalk around 7-8 miles per day and it implies light hiking on relatively flat terrain. The altitude at the hunting site is between 2500-3500 ft. above sea level. Both the high fence area as well as the free range area demand similar level of physical ability. 30,000 acres of high fence, plus 30,000 acres of free range, mean there is a lot of ground to cover. The surrounding range is comprised of over 7 million acres of fenceless land, and a lot of game. It's important to mention that, as opposed to other ranches. This is a place where all the animals there were born there and have a natural behavior and we have owned and managed this area for 22 years and our main focus has been to cull very hard on lesser quality animals. The outcome of this has been an average increase in SCI scores of over 30 inches. Success rate for Fallow deer is 95%, Blackbuck 50%, Wild goat is 90%, Patagonian ram is 90%, Mouflon sheep is 75%, Multi-horned sheep is 95%, Wild boar is 70%, Puma is 20% up to 50% depending the time of the year

 NOTICE: As October 23rd, 2008, the inter-jurisdictional transportation and export of puma trophies is prohibited due to resolution 1624/2008 enacted by the Argentine national wildlife authority (Dirección de Fauna de la Nación). Notwithstanding the above, this prohibition in no way affects the continued hunting of puma in the Province of Neuquén, where our ranch is located. Therefore, hunting licenses (as well as permits), may be issued at a maximum amount of 1 (one) puma trophy per hunter per year and official SCI scoring and pictures will be offered to the hunter upon completion of the hunt. Hence, YOU WILL BE ABLE TO APPLY FOR AWARDS AND REGISTER YOUR TROPHY IN THE RECORD BOOK. You will not, however, be able to transport the puma outside the Province of Neuquén or export it from Argentina. Your trophy will be held in storage, at no additional cost, for a period of five years, in case that the national wildlife authority reviews its current policy and authorizes the export of puma trophies in the future.
