Fretwork

All fret dressing and refrets require a setup. Refrets also require a new nut to accommodate the adjusted fret height. Part of the refret process is levelling the fingerboard to ensure the smoothest installation. Refrets on maple fingerboards (or other finished woods) will require refinishing to protect the wood. We use nitrocellulose lacquer for our finishing; this is a timeconsuming process so expect a longer turnaround time. We can offer either a gloss or satin finish for the same cost. It is possible to refret without refinishing (on vintage instruments for example) but we cannot guarantee a perfect outcome. All these services are included in our pricing.

Please note that for the most part, we do not offer partial refrets as we do not feel this is a fair service to the customer. If some of your frets need replacement, its likely the rest will need it soon as well. Charging for work and filing down wear to match the rest of the frets, only to need it repeated soon after with a full refret... just feels wrong. That said, if for some reason you have some damaged frets, please contact us and we will look at it.

Bone Work

We hand carve our bone nut and saddle replacements to perfectly fit your instrument. We feel this is the best choice for nut and saddle replacement and we keep stock on hand. If you require something other than bone please contact us for pricing; we will check into availability through our suppliers and provide a quote. With that said, the pricing will be similar as other materials still require custom finishing. All Bone work requires a setup, this has not been included in the pricing.
