

KICKING OFF 85!!

What a start to my 85th revolution around the sun! I chose Chicago because there is a Bahai temple there and I have been to similar temples on 3 other continents. Kelly and Duane were also going to be there for Lollapalooza and to top it all off, my grandson Jeffrey surprised me and was my host for the weekend. We stayed at Embassy Suites Chicago Downtown River North which was centrally located and I love that breakfast and an evening reception is included. The first day Jeffrey and I did the architecture tour. Lunch on my birthday was at Ema on Illinois and it was delicious! Following lunch, Jeffrey and I went to the Cubs and Braves game. I have followed the Braves so it was perfect that they were playing in Chicago. The Bahai temple was beautiful! Kelly and I sat in on an informational session that told more about the temple and the faith. Not sure exactly how I feel about it....but the Temple was beautiful! It was truly a fabulous weekend!
