August 22-24, 2017     Las Vegas, Nevada
Tribal Youth Sports Programs — Opportunities Through Professional Sports Partnerships

Football camps, with Super Bowl champions and other Redskins’ greats providing instruction to Native American youth football players throughout the United States. In 2017, 10 camps were held across 5 states attended by 1,230 participants from 70 schools. Partners include the NFL Foundation, Riddell, USA Football, the Washington Redskins Alumni, the Arizona Cardinals, Lexis Nexis, NNALEA, and the Citizens Potawatomi Nation.

Working with schools in Indian Country to provide state-of-the-art football helmets to youth and high school football players. Over 1,000 helmets have been donated over the last two years.

On behalf of the Ganado Unified School District Governing Board and the students it represents, I wish to thank you for your Foundations’ generous donation that will benefit our young athletes. Sports have a positive impact on student attendance, attitude and academic achievement and they are a key part of our educational system in Ganado.

We know that safe and quality equipment allows for more participation in our Athletic Program and your organization has made this possible.

Once again, ‘Ahehee (thank you)

Allan Blacksheep Jr.

Running back Ricky Ervins, a Super Bowl Champion and the leading rusher in Super Bowl XXVI, will be the keynote speaker at the Native American Awards Ceremony Wednesday evening.

Our mission is to bring inclusion and opportunities to Native Americans and their Tribal communities. The Foundation aspires to utilize the national platform of professional sports and their partners to create awareness about the daily challenges in the lives of most Native Americans based on what Tribal leaders have shared with us. The challenges on reservations today are far greater than football and our Foundation hopes to make a lasting impact in each and every community we touch.

Our focus areas include Economic Development, Education and Youth Activities, and Health and Community Services. Some examples of the Foundation’s work are listed below.

- Supporting the traditional sport of Indian rodeo.
- Building playgrounds in Indian Country.
- Supporting Tribal community and cultural events like fairs, powwows, and rodeos.
- Economic Development partner for Tribes.
- Law Enforcement and Emergency Services resources for vehicles, training, and equipment.
- Delivering winter coats to an Elementary School in South Dakota.
