

THE DAILY CHRONICLE

SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 19, 2021

On This Date

1796 – President George Washington made his farewell address, declining a third term as president and imploring the country to remain a strong union.

1893 – New Zealand became the first country in the world to grant national voting rights to women. In most other democracies, women did not win the right to vote until after the First World War.

1988 – Israel launched its first satellite onboard a Shavit rocket from the Negev Desert over the Mediterranean, becoming the ninth country to orbit a satellite.

Did You Know?

Today is International Talk Like a Pirate Day! Sprinkle your conversations with pirate talk such as:

“Shiver me timbers!”

“Avast, me proud beauty!”

“Arrr, the sea be in me blood!”

Quote of the Day

“Life is short, and it is up to you to make it sweet.”

~ Sarah Louise Delaney

Happy Birthday!

Sarah Louise Delany (1889–1999)

was an American teacher, author, and civil rights activist who lived nearly 110 years. Her life story, along with that of her sister Elizabeth Delany, was chronicled in the New York Times bestselling oral history Having Our Say: The Delany Sisters' First 100 Years. Delany grew up in Virginia, one of 10 children of a former enslaved person turned Episcopal bishop. She taught in the New York City public schools for many years. After her dear sister died, Delany published a memoir: On My Own at 107: Reflections on a Life Without Bessie.
