

GERARDO ALMAGUER

President and Chief Executive Officer at Développement international Desjardins (DID)

Gerardo Almaguer has been President and Chief Executive Officer at Développement international Desjardins (DID) since January 3, 2019. An engineer by trade, he also holds a master's degree in administration. He has had a long international career spanning over 25 years and joined DID 15 years ago. For almost four years, he managed the Entrepreneur Financial Center set up by DID in Panama. He also led the Project to Support Colombia's Agricultural Finance System (PASAC) in Colombia and carried out a variety of other assignments within the organization. In 2016, he became Senior Director, Agricultural finance and Food security. He has extensive knowledge of how financial cooperatives work and is well versed in the issues surrounding agricultural financing and development. www.did.qc.ca