

Amy Bradley
President & CEO,
Cambria Regional Chamber

2021 Joyce M. Murtha Excellence in Community Service Award

Amy Bradley began her tenure as president and chief executive officer of the Cambria Regional Chamber in March 2018. In this role, Amy and her team have enhanced programming and events and welcomed a record number of new chamber members.

Prior to coming to the chamber, Amy served as director of marketing communications and public affairs for the Conemaugh Health System, the largest health system between Pittsburgh and Harrisburg. While at Conemaugh, Amy served as producer, writer, and anchor of a half-hour health magazine television program, which received four Emmy nominations from the National Television Academy.

Before her work in public affairs, Amy was the anchor for WJAC-TV, Johnstown's NBC affiliate. She received the "Simply the Best TV News Personality" award six years in a row from the Tribune Democrat.

Amy is a graduate of the Pennsylvania State University and earned a master's degree in health services leadership from Saint Vincent College. She is a member of the Pennsylvania Association of Chamber Professionals, Public Relations Society of America, and the Society for Healthcare Strategy and Market Development.

Amy is a married mother of three. In addition to involvement in a number of community organizations, including the Cambria County Drug Coalition and her church, she also works as an adjunct instructor teaching public relations at the University of Pittsburgh at Johnstown and business at Saint Francis University.
