MORE INFO: I'm six years old and the sweetest, silliest boy. I don't have a mean bone in my body. When you look at me, I smile by putting my ears back and wiggling or hunkering down just a bit. Every time! I have a moderate to low energy level at this point in time but I'm also needing many naps after exploring this new world I'm just learning about that includes a house and a yard.

When I'm not napping on the couch, I'm probably prancing around with a toy. I LOVE TOYS! I explore the house like a puppy does since being in a house is new to me. For example, the first time I saw the bathroom rug, I grabbed it and trotted away proudly until my foster mom said no. Then I dropped it and crouched down with ears pinned back but as soon as she handed me a dog toy to play with instead, I pranced off happily again. I'll learn what's mine and what's yours quickly because I pick up most everything that is loose only because I don't know house rules yet. I just have to be told.

I'm a short guy and currently have the physique of a potato or maybe a potbellied pig but I've already lost a few pounds while in foster care. Quality food and exercise is working wonders. I love to sniff the entire backyard, especially along the perimeter. Every once in a while, I take off and get pretty speedy. I'm super silly and goofy, and a little clumsy. I dump water and food bowls more often than I'd like to admit. I don't even know how I do it but I do it almost daily. If I sound like one of the best boys, it's true. I'd be a happy and bright light in your house. I would be happiest if you got me some toys and let me snuggle next to you and rub my little round face on you. It would be amazing if I also had a dog sibling to play and nap with. I could learn from them too.
