Does your foster have any special medical needs? She currently eats Royal Canin ‘Veterinary Diet. Adult Hydrolyzed Protein’ and is doing quite well on this food. She’s dislocated her patella in the past, doing OK now. Overall, Ginger is a very healthy and well-cared for pup.

MORE INFO: Ginger is the mama pup to Mac OH1543. They are NOT a bonded pair, as they do best with individual attention separate from one another. She is a July 4th birthday pup, which is fitting because she is definitely a firecracker! Ginger is a sassy and independent girl who loves to play ball or with squeaky toys, going for sniff walks, lounging outside, and patrolling the backyard perimeter. When she is not playing, you can find her relaxing with a Flexibone Nylabone or soaking up sunbeams. Ginger is a very smart and inquisitive girl who will sit by the door to let foster mom know it’s time to go potty, or at the food pantry and demand a treat. Ginger also has the gift of selective hearing (she calls it independence) and is working on responding to her foster mom when called. Ginger injured her patella while doing her favorite thing—playing ball. She is doing okay now and remains very active. Ginger is a strong girl, and she doesn’t let her injury stop her from being her silly, playful, and quirky self. Overall, Ginger is a laid-back girl who will do well in any family dynamic. She is loving, loyal, and enjoys snuggling up to her person while burrowed under the covers.
