"I want to be the voice on the other end of the line that can hopefully, even for a few minutes, let the caller know someone cares. Being a crisis line volunteer has made me truly appreciate the enormity of the impact an organization like STAR has for victims and survivors and their loved ones. We help people who feel there is nowhere else to go for help, from all corners of Alaska. I hear the gratitude in those voices, and that is what drives me to continue to volunteer. Even at the most difficult times, I feel I am making a difference for those who have had the strength to reach out for help."

At STAR, our team of specialists strive to connect with the community to create awareness and lead conversations to cultivate a safer Alaska for everyone. We believe that if we reach as many people as possible with this information, especially youth, we will see greater change.

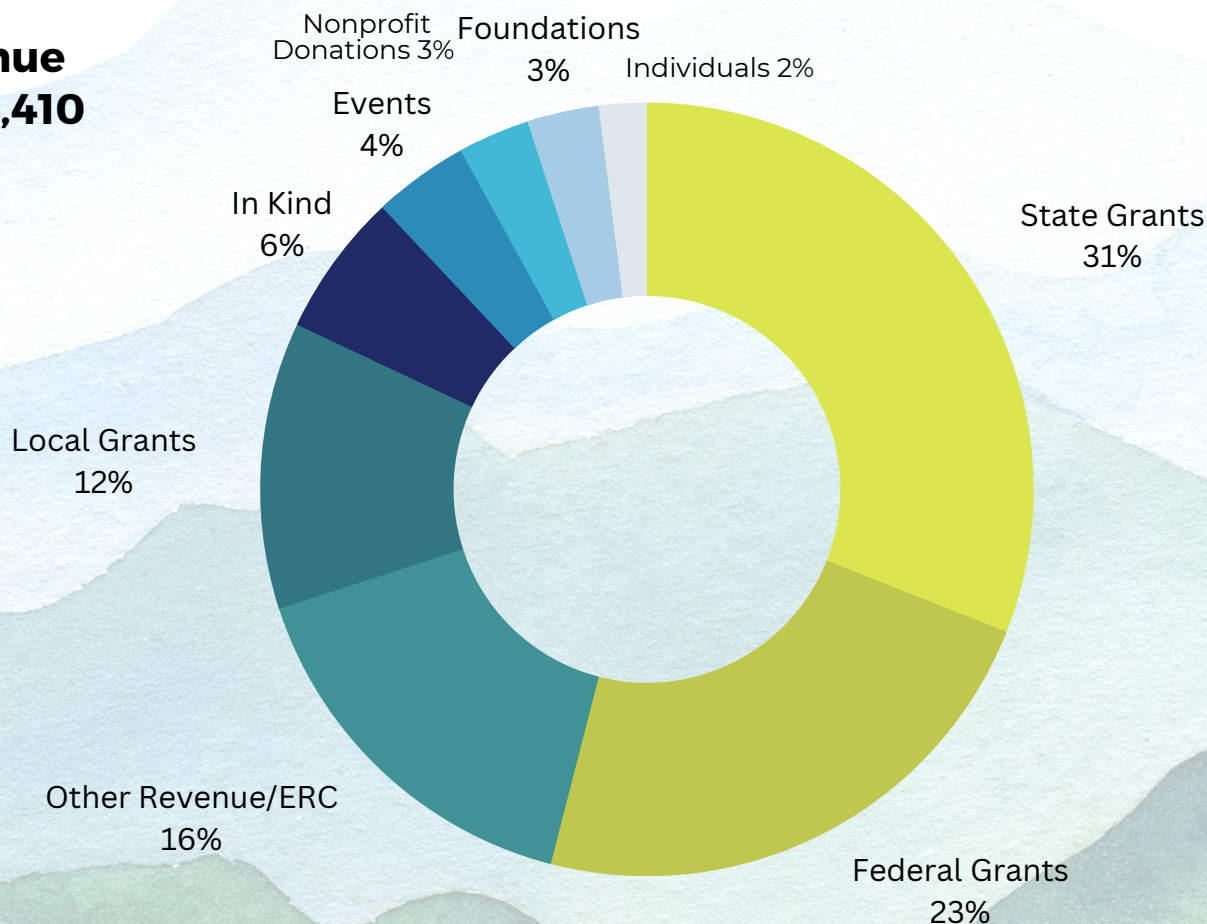

Our specialized presentations are one of the ways we continue to inform the community on victim sensitivity, responding to crisis and disclosures, and root causes of violence. Trainings can be tailored to meet the needs of any organization or business.

STAR offers age-appropriate violence prevention programming for youth. These presentations are ASD approved for classrooms K-12. The presentations for Kindergarten – 6th grade focus on bodily autonomy and personal body safety, while the information shared with middle school – high school is about building healthy relationships and consent.

I felt I was being listened to about my sexual abuse. I also felt I didn't need to hold back anything I was feeling today.

Thank you for what you do, who you are, and why you help. I am glad you're here in this community, doing good things for people who need it. It's important work and I'm glad I came here.
