

For Immediate Release

May 23, 2022

MEDIA CONTACT: Elizabeth Malloy, director@haddamhistory.org

Announcing Connecticut Historic Gardens Day 2022

Visit 15 distinctive historic sites statewide on Sunday, June 26, 2022

STATEWIDE: Connecticut's Historic Gardens (CHG) is a group of 15 distinctive historic sites and gardens dotted throughout the state offering visitors an opportunity to explore a variety of garden styles and time periods. Each year on the fourth Sunday in June the sites are open to the public to enjoy their beauty and history and to foster an appreciation for these unique and special Connecticut landmarks.

Visitors can learn about gardens ranging from colonial-period herb gardens to elaborate Colonial Revival-era gardens and enjoy a lovely afternoon in a variety of historic settings. Each site has something special to offer the entire family.

CHG cultivates a passion for the diversity of historic gardens at distinctive historic homes in Connecticut. By partnering through shared marketing initiatives, CHG brings greater recognition and visitation to member sites, offering visitors experiences rich in beauty and history, and fostering learning. The group consists of 15 sites throughout the state: Bellamy-Ferriday House & Garden, Bethlehem; Butler-McCook House & Garden, Hartford; Florence Griswold Museum, Old Lyme; Glebe House Museum & The Gertrude Jekyll Garden, Woodbury; Harkness Memorial State Park, Waterford; Harriet Beecher Stowe Center, Hartford; Hill-Stead Museum, Farmington; Osborne Homestead Museum & Kellogg Environmental Center, Derby; Phelps-Hatheway House & Gardens, Suffield; Promisek at Three Rivers Farm, Bridgewater; Roseland Cottage, Woodstock; Stanley-Whitman House, Farmington, Thankful Arnold House Museum, Haddam; Webb-Deane-Stevens Museum, Wethersfield; and Weir Farm National Historic Park, Wilton.

See <https://cthistoricgardens.org/> for information about the group and site-specific activities.