

Lauren Enders, PWC Recruitment Scholarship $1500

Lauren is a high school senior at Lyman High School in Longwood, FL and has been accepted for admission to Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University Daytona Beach Campus. She will also be a student athlete at ERAU as a coxswain on the women's rowing team. In her essay, Lauren pointed out the similarities of the attributes of a coxswain to those of air traffic controllers: "natural leaders who are decisive, driven, and know what has to be done and how to take control of a boat or situation to get the desired end result". Lauren has taken honors classes throughout her 4 years in high school maintaining a 3.8 GPA and participates in the National Honors Society. She is also very involved in her community participating on cheer team and crew team as captain, as well as volunteering at her high school, girl scouts, and with her church.

Lauren's letters of recommendation describe her as a natural leader, dedicated, a good team member, having a solid work ethic, and kind. The scholarship committee thought that it was very astute of her to make the connection between the similarities of a coxswain and an air traffic controller. We look forward to having Lauren in the ATC ranks with us someday and are more than happy to help her along the way.
