SCHOLARSHIPS

Mary McBurney Memorial Scholarship: The PWC Board of Directors designated the "Mary McBurney Memorial Scholarship" in honor of our late past president, whose passion for PWC's Scholarship program got it off the ground. This honor goes to every PWC member who is awarded a PWC Scholarship.

The Herman J. Lyons, Jr. Memorial Scholarship: Awarded to a candidate that stands out above the rest for their service to their community, excellence in academics, and dedication to the advancement of aviation education or design.

The Jacqueline Smith Burdette Scholarship: PWC co-founder Jacqueline Smith Burdette created an annually funded scholarship to encourage those planning careers in aviation or to advance their career in aviation. Pre-requisites include enrollment in an accredited college or technical school, in an aviation-related program, and intention to pursue an aviation-related career. PWC membership is not required.

The Sue Townsend Scholarship: This scholarship encourages women who are active FAA air traffic controllers or operational supervisors to advance their aviation careers. Pre-requisites include enrollment in an accredited college or technical school in an aviation on-related program. PWC membership is not required.

The Margaret Hoffman Scholarship: This scholarship is for women in the FAA who are active air traffic controllers. This scholarship can be used for any course of study, either to advance an ATC career or prepare the recipient for a second career. Staff, supervision, and management are ineligible.

PROFESSIONAL WOMEN CONTROLLERS, INC.

PWC Purpose is to encourage women to enter the air traffic control profession; assist in professional and personal development; maintain accountability, responsibility, and professionalism; and promote a better understanding, cooperation and coordination among individuals toward the continual improvement of aviation safety.

PWC Vision Professional Women Controllers, Inc. (PWC) vision is to achieve a balanced workforce that reflects the demographics of society and creates a safe environment where all air traffic professionals have passion for their career, can excel, and feel a sense of community at work.

PWC Mission Professional Women Controllers, Inc. (PWC) is a resource that provides support, training, encouragement, and camaraderie for all air traffic professionals. PWC advocates balancing work and family life, recruiting and retaining excellent employees, developing people, enjoying work, and maintaining a positive sense of community.
