Presidents Report by Robert Ballard

We're winding down our 2021/2022 winter season of Work Fun Parties, the last will be May 14th at the Chapin Preserve. We got off to a rocky start as the October storm flooded the Taylor/Willow Lake Preserve and we were limited to what we could do. But our faithful worked on the entrance strip until the rain came.

November we were at the Wigert/Barron Preserve where the on-going battle with the invasive trees and plants continued and significant cleanup was done as well as the replanting of the Butterfly habitat. With more work needing to be done before our first "Featured Preserve Walk" was held we came back in late November to do some touch up. So, in early December we conducted 3 tours of the Wigert/Barron Preserve for about 18 people.

Then the December Work Fun Party was at the Dobbs preserve where work was focused on enhancing the trail through the mangroves along the spoil banks created by the adjacent mosquito control canal. Construction of dry walk ways between the spoil mounts were completed while the path over the spoil mounds were improved.

January was our annual Fritts Park cleanup work party in preparation for the Annual Membership Meeting followed by the annual rummage sale. A new pergola over the platform was constructed provided some shade to the area.

In February we were back at the Dobbs preserve to finish the construction of the trail. March had us back at the Taylor/Willow Lake after again having to cancel the scheduled Work Party Day because of weather. We finally got rescheduled a couple of weeks later and our hardy volunteers came out to do a tremendous amount of work cleaning up the trails and attacking every present invasive plant issue.

In April we met at the St James Creek Preserve/St Jude Trail where the trail was cleaned up and the grounds around the Tiki Huts were groomed. Invasive trees on the east side of the mosquito canals were removed.

Thank you to all of the 62 volunteers that came out over the course of the year (some several times) to help get this important work. This represents over 420 hours of work this past season. You make it happen!

SUPER SUCCESSFUL 2022 CALUSA RUBBER DUCK RACE!

The Pine Island Community, snowbirds, and visitors turned out in droves to celebrate the CLT's 23rd Great Rubber Duck Race Saturday, March 5th. Over 60 volunteers worked tirelessly for months before rounding up donations from over 150 business and individual donors, who contributed so generously. Many, many thanks to those volunteers and donors for making this year's Great Calusa Rubber Duck Race the GREATEST Success of all time! Over $36,000 was raised to help the CLT acquire, manage, and preserve the lands on this island that have been entrusted to our care.

Thank you to all CLT supporters for buying Duck Race tickets (we sold out 10 days before the race), Super Duck tickets (sold out quickly day of the race), shirts, hats, and bidding on our many and varied items at the Silent Auction and Live Auction. And lest not forget our Spinning Wheels!

Laughter and camaraderie filled the entire afternoon with the many winners of prizes and home baked goods.

What a Race Day, Calusa Land Trust supporters!

Here's looking forward to seeing y'all again next year!

Rummage Sale Results by Alison Ackerman

Our annual Rummage Sale held on January 29 was a huge success. Since last year's sale was cancelled, we had an abundance of donations to organize and price, which helped us surpass our $3,000 goal, reaching $3,279.45 to be precise. That total is all the more remarkable because most items sold for less than $5.00. And because we want to beat our record every year, we'll be shooting for at least $3,300 next January!

To prepare for next year, I would like to extend an invitation to anyone who would like to add their name to our volunteer list. We have about 30 people who help in various capacities, from organizing and pricing items, preparing the tables for the Saturday sale, helping at the actual sale, and then packing up the leftovers. If you think you MAY be interested, I can add your name to my e-mail group list, and you will then get any notices I send out asking for help. Not everyone can lend a hand every time I ask, but that's fine. We plan on having a few days during the year when we meet at Fritts Park and price the items that have already been donated. In fact, we have done that once already this spring and it was amazing what we did in just a couple of hours. Please consider joining our team which to me is one of the most fun-loving groups I've ever had the pleasure of working with. Give me a call and leave a message at 239-851-3176, or e-mail me at alison@spikowski.com.

I also hope everyone out there is saving their unwanted items for our sale next year, but don't worry. You do not have to wait until next January to get them out of your garage! Just contact me, and I will be happy to arrange a pick-up or a place for you to drop things off.

Happy collecting!

By: Marty Kendall

It is peaceful here as I enter the pathway to the Calusa Land Trust's St. Jude Nature Trail. The round trip walk on a well established path is approximately a one-mile round trip. This is Florida as it once was. It was initially slated to be a heavily populated boulevard lined with shopping centers, homes and restaurants, all leading to a cross-water bridge to Punta Russa. Fortunately, the permits were withdrawn before the destruction occurred. Today it is a quiet, dog leash friendly nature trail dutifully maintained by CLT volunteers. Left undisturbed, the mangroves and vegetation are flourishing and the native creatures are bountiful. There are several benches (for resting and gazing) and a tiki hut protected picnic table. Life is simple here.

As you proceed toward the end of the trail, there is a boardwalk which is constructed of wooden engraved planks that name friends and families who have contributed to the land trust's conservation efforts. Stand on the deck for a moment at the end of the trail and experience what the Calusa Indians would have seen over a millennium ago. No wonder we love it here!

Island Fest - Mullet Toss & Seafood Festival 2022 by Joan Rosenberg

On Saturday, April 23, the Pine Island Chamber of Commerce sponsored an Island Fest at Phillips Park – combining two long time events – the Mullet Toss and the Seafood Festival. The weather was sunny and warm but a steady breeze was very welcoming. The Calusa Land Trust set up a booth to sell a variety of our CLT Calusa Clothesline clothing with our logos. We sold tee shirts, fishing shirts and hats.

Our long time Merchandising leader, Gloria Andrews has recently retired and our board member, Nancy Weir, will lead the Calusa Clothesline project in the future. In addition to Nancy, we had many volunteers – Kelly and his friends Stan and Chuck, as well as Judy Ott and Brian Cotterill helped with setup. Karen Penman, Carol Mullin, Alice Trant, and Robert Ballard helped with sales, and Frank Potter and Judy Ott helped with breakdown. Almost $1000 worth of merchandise was sold. Many brochures were handed out to inform our island residents about the Calusa Land Trust and we got very positive feedback. The general consensus was that residents want a place to live where they can enjoy nature and be assured our beautiful island green space will be protected.

Dobbs Preserve redo - by Les Smith

Recent work by our work/fun parties and several dedicated CLT volunteers have greatly improved access along our existing trail at the Dobb's Preserve. Wherever possible we have migrated the existing trail from low lying areas to higher sand mounds that run along the side of the tidal creek along the western edge of Dobb's Preserve.

Quiet at Taylor Willow Lake Preserve

How Do You Picture Quiet? Pine Island has an all-too-short quiet season between the frantic noise of snowbirds & mosquitos. My April treasure hunt lead me to the quiet of our Taylor Willow Lake Preserve, where I settled into a camp chair by the mangroves & waited for the bird songs & colors to slide through sunset to twilight.

Where is Taylor Willow Lake Preserve? The preserve is near the Catholic Church, 2 miles north of PI Center at 11245 Alcorn St. Park at the designated lot on Alcorn, pick up a trail map at the kiosk & walk through the main gate, across a small field to a second gate into the trails. The trail gate is chained but not locked. Please re-chain the gate & be respectful of the neighbors.

What Sights & Sounds are at Taylor Willow Lake? The preserve has 37 acres of hardwood hammock, willow swamp, mangroves & salt flats, traversed by 3 well marked trails. At its heart is a thick hardwood hammock with tall, old growth pines & oaks dripping in Spanish moss. We don't know the age of these trees – most local pines were logged in the early 1900s & there was a sawmill near Pineland. So these giants could be over 100 years old. West of the hammock is a fringe of black & red mangroves leading onto a salt flat popular with wading birds. An old "skeeter ditch" along the south leads to a willow swamp at the east, also home to many birds. The dense woods dampen the noise from Stringfellow Road & the wind in the tall treetops accompanies bird songs, frog chirps & small animal rustling.

Prairie Warbler

R. Schain

What Birds Can You Hear at Taylor Willow Lake? During my April afternoon sit-down near the mangroves, I didn't see wading birds – the tide was too low. But I heard Prairie Warblers along the salt flats & a Great Crested Flycatcher in the pines. At dark, a Chuck-Wills-Willow called from deeper in the woods. Here's what I heard:

Prairie Warbler: A tiny bird with a big voice. It lives in FL shrubby forests, young pine stands & mangroves year round, but is found from Massachusetts to Cuba. The FL subspecies breeds in mangroves & is larger than it's relatives. It has black streaks on it's yellow face & tummy, constantly wags it's tail & eats insects. It's call is a rising & accelerating zee-zee-zee-zee-zee-zeeeee.

Great Crested Flycatcher

S. Martin

Great Crested Flycatcher: An assertive flycatcher of the treetops. It lives in the canopies of open woodlands year round in south FL. It is large but inconspicuous, with an olive-brown crest, yellow belly & reddish wing markings. It nests in tree cavities often decorated with snakeskin & swoops down to catch insects, but also eats fruit. It calls to be heard not seen, hiding in the foliage, making a loud, penetrating, rising whee-eeep.

Chuck-Wills-Widow

K. Doddridge

Chuck-Wills-Widow: A large, boisterous nightjar. Often heard, but seldom seen, it is camouflaged mottled brown. It has a small beak & a large mouth with bristles used to help catch flying insects at dusk & on moonlight nights. It roosts & nests in leaf litter of pine & scrub woodland floors. It's eggs are mottled pink, brown & lavender; Unfortunately their numbers are declining rapidly; The male calls to attract mates from April through June – a well recognized, incessant chuck-wills-wed.

How Can You Identify Bird Calls? A useful tool is with the BirdNET mobile app from Cornell Ornithology Lab. You can use your phone to record bird calls near you & the app identifies the associated bird. It's great for treasuring hunting in our preserves. Enjoy & good luck!
