Presented by the Friends of Lifelong Learning

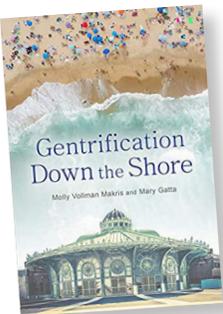

GLORY DAYS OF ASBURY PARK?

The Grand History & Sober Realities
The Gentrification of Asbury Park
Who's Winning, Who's Losing?

This presentation is proudly sponsored by The Friends of Lifelong Learning – our friends, and yours(!), who issued an invitation for lecture proposals last year (pre-pandemic). Many esteemed scholars proposed fascinating ideas. This lecture was selected by the Friends for its uniquely fresh research impacting all of us in some way.

Gentrification, the influx of affluent residents and businesses, affects many communities today. Asbury Park, like Red Bank and Long Branch, has enjoyed days of plenty and days of want.

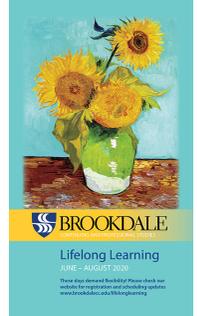

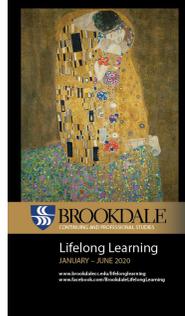

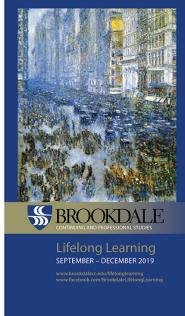

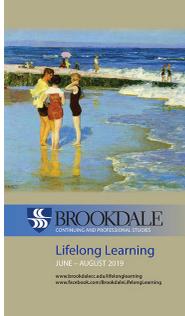

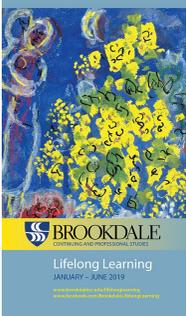

Join us for a closer look at the grand history and the sober realities of today's Asbury Park. Professors Molly Vollman Makris and Mary Gatta, authors of Gentrification at the Shore tell the story of life on the West Side of Asbury Park as the East Side prospers and point to a potential path forward. Learn about this evolving redevelopment and what it means to long time Asbury residents – and to all of us.

Wed, Sept 15, 10 am-noon

Fee and Code: $15 includes breakfast, XHUMN 002

Dear Friends and Neighbors –

We greet this fall with more than the usual enthusiasm! We are all eager for the unique camaraderie and shared joy of new Lifelong Learning experiences.

Whether in-person or online, Lifelong Learning offers fresh ideas delivered by accomplished experts that can change the way you think and feel about yourself and the world around you. Fall is the perfect time for “back to school” and these pages are full of outstanding possibilities. Join us for a smart start to the new season.

Classes are being held in person on campus unless otherwise indicated by Zoom icon
Be assured your safety remains our primary concern and we will continue to make cautious adjustments as new realities unfold.

You got through the 60's before you turned 20. But getting through the 20's after you turn 60 will require some radical ideas.

Do Something Radical.

HOLISTIC HEALING

Reiki – Level I

Karen Fiorelli, instructor

The Japanese work “Reiki” means universal life force/energy. Reiki, a 3,000-year-old method of healing touch, originated in ancient Eastern cultures. It’s a technique that uses touch to facilitate relaxation, reduce stress, manage pain and promote healing. Health sciences recognize that spiritual and emotional imbalances affect our physical health and wellbeing. Reiki restores balance to body, mind and spirit, maximizing the natural healing process. When we remain out of balance, we become susceptible to “dis-ease”. Upon completion participants will be fully trained and will receive a certificate for the Usui System of Reiki Healing. Wear comfortable clothes and bring water and a snack.

Cromwell And Cranmer: Men Who Shaped The Crown And The Church In 16th Century England

Lyndell O’Hara, PhD, history professor Nyack College

Thomas Cromwell and Thomas Cranmer were born into families of modest means, yet both rose to serve as close advisers to the Tudor monarchy. At a time of religious and political reform, they held tremendous influence on English policy. As Cromwell guided the country from a medieval to a modern nation, Cranmer’s Book of Common Prayer defined the very essence of the newly formed Church of England. Yet, in the midst of court intrigue and monarchical succession, both men were imprisoned and executed by order of the Crown. 3 SESSIONS

In The Spirit Of The Season

The Devil: A Biography

Greg Caggiano, instructor

Since the dawn of humanity, the notion of good vs. evil has played a part in our daily lives. This lecture will examine our constructs of the Devil, also known as Lucifer and the anti-Christ. We will work our way through antiquity, Judeo-Christian theology, and end in modern times with a study of demonology and Satan’s role in popular culture and books and movies such as The Exorcist.

Vampires: History, Myth, And Movies

Greg Caggiano, instructor

Are vampires simply legends or something more? Our journey will cover the historical basis, folklore, and pop culture evolution of the vampire from a hideous monster into a suave and sexy predator as seen in many Hollywood films. Learn how Bela Lugosi and Christopher Lee transformed our interpretations, and how Bram Stoker based one of the most famous horror characters of all-time on a real person, Vlad Tepes. Sometimes fact can be scarier than fiction.

Today's Toxic Political Dialogue

Lawrence Bashe, instructor

There is general agreement on all sides that our present political dialogue is divisive and devoid of traditional compromise. However, there is little agreement on what to do about it. This discussion will answer the question of whether today's problems are unique in US history or not. What can be done to change it?

Three Albums That Helped Shape The Musical Future

Pat Barton, professional musician, instructor

During their brief, volatile recording career Buffalo Springfield released just three albums; a grand total of thirty-four original songs. But the four songwriters from this seminal band-Richie Furay, Jim Messina, Stephen Stills, and Neil Young-remained vitally important after Springfield dissolved. Their later work with bands like Poco, Loggins & Messina, and Crosby, Stills, Nash and Young created a template for many successful acts that followed, shaping the musical future into the 21st century. Join professional musician and educator Pat Barton on a six-hour journey charting the long-lasting influence of the short-lived Buffalo Springfield. 3 SESSIONS

The Enduring Legacy Of Alexander Hamilton

Lawrence Bashe, instructor

Founding Father Alexander Hamilton greatly influenced the content of our US Constitution. He campaigned for its adoption by the Thirteen States as one of the authors of the Federalist Papers. He had the clearest vision of how to create a US Economy and how it would develop in the future. As the First Secretary of the Treasury he set the course for how to finance the new federal government and establish the country's strong credit. His economic vision and leadership paved the way for the Gold Standard, a national currency, the industrialization of the country in the post-Civil War period and the creation of the Federal Reserve System more than a hundred years later under Woodrow Wilson. Did the musical "Hamilton" get it right?

The Consequences Of Conspiracy Theories

Christian Perez, instructor

What is the harm in believing things that aren't true? Explore the often-high costs associated with believing conspiracy theories, pseudoscience, and fake news. Far too often we relegate these ideas to the fringes of society. But as we've seen in recent years they have crept into the mainstream and even the highest office in the land. From flat-earthers to white supremacists to UFOs to January 6th, 2021, we will examine various ideas and events and highlight their dubious place in American conspiracy theory history. Are these wrong ideas something new or the same old stuff with a new coat of paint?

No Greater Love: The Hunger Strike In Ireland

Instructor: Henry McNally, MA, Fordham, Irish historian, recipient of the 2019 Eoin McKiernan Award

Forty years ago, the Hunger Strike, long a part of the Celtic tradition, reemerged in Ireland, changing the dynamics of Northern Ireland Politics and setting the stage for an eventual peaceful end to “The Troubles.” Those who died gave their lives freely and willingly for a cause in which they believed, enduring literally months of agony; they died as patriots and as heroes. Examine the events leading to the adoption by political prisoners of this extraordinary measure.

First four sessions will offer detailed coverage of Long Kesh and the “H Block” prisons, the “Criminalization” policy instituted by England, the Blanket protest, the “No Wash” response and finally the Hunger Strike. The lives of each of those who died will be chronicled in some depth. Course will conclude with a presentation on the County Armagh Women’s Prison and the hunger strike undertaken by equally heroic Republican women protesting their treatment as common criminals and not political prisoners. Learning experience will be enhanced by viewings of relevant film clips and YouTube videos. 5 SESSIONS

Ireland’s “Petticoat Pilots:” Female Aviators of the 1900s

Maureen Dunphy-Brady, MA, NYU Glucksman Ireland House, Irish historian

Meet the first women pilots to take to the skies in Ireland in the 1900s. These daring trailblazers competed in flying competitions, set world records in altitude and distance flying, and flew long-distance solo endurance flights. Their impressive feats, combined with their glamorous, aristocratic lifestyles, made newspaper headlines and their names were known all over the world. Although their stories are largely forgotten, these women were remarkable pioneers in the early days of aviation and their stories are a thrilling part of the history of flight. 4 SESSIONS

Contemporary Irish Short Stories

Rath DeHoust, Irish language and literature lifelong learning instructor

Sometimes, it's the simple things that hold the most mystery. And so, it is with the Irish Short Story, where the works of contemporary writers present a representation of the Individual, the Community, and the Nation. From history and the passage of time to gender and power, join us as we explore and compare the works of Colum McCann, Claire Keegan, Edna O'Brien, Kevin Barry and others. Stories will be sent upon registration. 4 SESSIONS

Book Talk: Newly Released – The Terror War

Joseph E.A. Connell

Join author and Irish historian, Joe Connell for a discussion of his latest publication, The Terror War which examines the trauma of the times – both the exceptional and the ordinary. A diverse range of issues will be addressed including; the establishment of an Irish intelligence network in Ireland; Bloody Sunday and its effect on British intelligence (was Bloody Sunday terror for both sides?); the mirror-like use of terror in the war; the results of the war – did the Irish 'win' and achieve their goals? Was there really a 'revolution' in Ireland or just a changing of the guard?

Talk followed by Q&A and book signing.

LITERATURE/WRITING

Write Away!

Mary Walsh, MA, author of A Spy is Not a Spy, creative writing instructor Flagler College

Fiction or not, this course is a light-hearted approach to what some consider a serious endeavor: the written word. Participants will recognize what makes writing engage us, and try their hand at the following skills: the backstory, the narrator, description, the narrative arc, and writing to the conclusion. Each class will focus on one of these. Students will respond to weekly prompts, or if you have something specific in mind, that can be your goal. The only requirement is the desire to write, and an openness to listen to the work of your fellow classmates, should they choose to share. 5 SESSIONS

Shakespeare's Sonnets

Carl Calendar, PhD, former Dean of Humanities, Brookdale

So many mysteries surround Shakespeare's Sonnets. Who published them and why? Did Shakespeare approve the ordering? Who is the handsome young boy, the rival poet, and the Dark Lady? Shakespeare's sonnet sequence is considered the greatest group of poems ever written but they have also created some of literature's great mysteries. Dr. Calendar will discuss the history of sonnets which led to Shakespeare's, what we know or speculate about the sonnets themselves, their radical use of the sonnet form, and why they are some of the most magnificent poems in the English language. 2 SESSIONS

THINK AGAIN

“Do not grow old, no matter how long you live. Never cease to stand like curious children before the great mystery into which we were born.” – Albert Einstein

What To Do Next?

John Miraglia, instructor

Did you know there is Nobel Prize winning science behind our ability to make good decisions? Don't miss this opportunity to explore the pitfalls that cause us to make avoidable mistakes. These include:

- Ignoring probabilities
- Gambler's Fallacy
- Positive descriptions
- Illusion of validity
- Loss Aversion

This entertaining experience will offer case studies and simple scenarios requiring a decision. Participants will make decisions (privately). Then, we'll explore how each foible/pitfall influences and hinders our ability to make consistently good decisions. The key to better decision making becomes recognizing when you are succumbing to one of these pitfalls and to rely instead on evidence-based decision making. May also include an exercise on evidence-based decision making. Registering for this class is an easy, wise decision!

The Creative Process

John Balme, musician, conductor,
Brookdale humanities instructor

Don't miss this opportunity to explore one of Brookdale's most popular courses, drawn from the Humanities 3-credit class of the same name. "Creativity" is usually assumed to mean the 'arts.' This course goes way deeper and explores all our creative fields: we dig into the 'universal' human-defining creations: language, mythology, religion, how we think and the evolution of philosophy. We will unwrap how creativity happens and how creativity is what defines us as human. We'll explore the 'arts' based on our five senses-what we see, hear, smell, touch and taste. And, for a change of pace, we will examine the amazing story of the creation of the earliest computer (c.1830s!), leading to the world of Artificial Intelligence. 4 SESSIONS

Living An Emotionally Healthy Life

Diane Lang, therapist, author, educator

When we are happy, we are healthier. There is a huge connection between our physical and emotional health. When we are happy, we are more productive and creative which is why wellness is so important. You are in control of your happiness, or at least up to 40%, according to science. While each person has a genetic set point for happiness (like we do for weight), a large part of how you feel is under your control, meaning the way you spend your time and the thoughts you allow to linger can impact your mood and your long-term happiness. Examine six factors that influence our personal happiness. 3 SESSIONS

The New Normal Of The Post Pandemic Economy

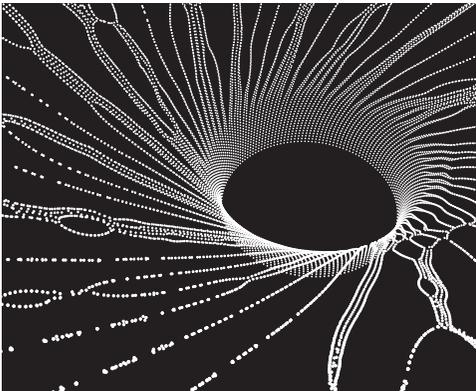

Joseph Bonacci, MBA, instructor

The 2020-2021 US Economy will go down in history as one of extremes. COVID-19 lockdowns produced economic data rivaling the Great Depression with a subsequent recovery producing some of the strongest economic data on record. These extremes have produced a new normal throughout the economy. Federal Reserve policy, government spending, employment, inflation, supply chains, and stock and bond markets – all have been affected. These topics will be discussed and given some historical perspective. 3 SESSIONS

TIME: The Mystery At The Heart Of The Universe

Sarbmeet Kanwal, PhD, physicist

What is time? It is not what a clock's hands read. The significance of time and whether it even exists have been a subject of philosophical debate since Newton's time. Einstein famously declared time to be a stubbornly persistent illusion. John Wheeler said time is what prevents everything from happening at once. Time stops inside a black hole. The latest theory of quantum gravity suggests that time emerged during the Big Bang from the quantum nature of space. This course will explore an enigma of our universe that is perhaps one of the deepest and the most mystifying. 3 SESSIONS
