BOOTH TALK SCHEDULE

Booths 803 & 804

Saturday, May 4

12:00 PM McCoy Pottery with Paul Moody

McCoy Pottery is a proverbial favorite among collectors both casual and committed. Learn more about this great American pottery, from entry-level to advanced collecting.

1:00 PM Smith-Miller Trucks with Steve Butler

When Smith-Miller ceased production in the mid-1950s it was regarded as the finest manufacturer of toy trucks in the United States. Learn the history of the company, its iconic fire trucks, and its resurrection in 1979.

2:00 PM Roseville Pottery with John Harvey

Roseville Pottery has been an enduring favorite with collectors for several generations. We'll review the many styles Roseville deployed over the years, including its own iconic "Roseville style", and we'll learn tips on distinguishing the real from the fake.

3:00 PM Fiberglass Shell Chairs with Frank Novak

Learn how Modernica revitalized the almost lost art of high-pressure fiberglass molding, reintroducing fiberglass shell chairs originally developed by Eames and Saarinen in the late 1940s. Modernica produces the chairs as they were originally created, preserving fiberglass chair legacy and craft.

4:00 PM Rookwood Pottery with Riley Humler

Among American art pottery companies, none has achieved so extensive and durable an artistic legacy as Rookwood. We'll survey the wide range of Rookwood's creations and get expert advice on collecting in today's market.

Sunday, May 5

1:00 PM Abingdon Art Pottery With Christine Boone

Abingdon, an Illinois-based ceramics company, produced a wide range of art pottery between the years 1934 and 1950. We'll explore the history of this lesser known pottery company, sampling a few of their more than 1,000 attractive shapes and 150 glazes.

2:00 PM Mid-Century Architecture with Susan Halla

Mid-Century architecture is more than modern. Come and discover all the varieties of mid-century architecture and leave with some tips for identifying mid-century homes in your community.

3:00 PM Rose Cabat With Bruce Block

In her long life, Rose Cabat produced a body of work without equal in American studio ceramics. The culmination of her career was the form we now call "feelies". We'll take a personal look at Rose's work and what makes her feelies an icon of 20th century pottery.

4:00 PM Northern Virginia Radio and TV Museum with Geoff Shearer

Through meetings, newsletters, and journals, the Northern Virginia Radio and Television Historical Society provides information on topics such as repair techniques and cabinet refinishing. Learn more about the Society and its efforts to establish a museum.

Sedgwick Gardens

One of the most distinguished and eccentric apartment buildings in DC is located at 3726 Connecticut Ave. NW. Built in 1931, it was the work of Mihran Mesrobian, an Armenian-American architect.

Built with charming architectural style, Sedgwick Gardens captures both historical character and modern conveniences. Expansive floor plans offer generous space, remodeled gourmet kitchens with designer cabinetry, new windows, fresh appliances, and distinct accents such as built-in bookcases and gleaming hardwood floors are only some of the many reasons the community is one of DC's Best Addresses.

Fall In Love With Woodblock Prints!

JAPANESE

Woodblock Prints

.GALLERY

Frank Lloyd Wright was among the first to be smitten by the beauty of Japanese Woodblock prints... he said he was 'enslaved' by prints...

"because it is no secret that the prints choose whom they love and there is then no salvation but surrender."
