PROPHETIC EXHORTATION

I don't talk about my experiences with hell often. There was a time when Jesus came to me and said He was going to take me into hell for a full-length visit (in other words, multiple back to back visitations) so I could come back and share it. But I begged Him not to take me because I had seen so much already and I was afraid. The Lord granted my request, but later came back and told me how disappointed He was that I didn't trust Him enough to take me.

That was 7 years ago...

However, throughout the years, I have been shown different portions of hell and also the Lord has allowed me to see certain people, including loved ones who unfortunately left this life without Christ and ended up in hell.

That being said, I want to briefly share something with you, and it's for a reason...

In June of 2009, the singer and "King of Pop", Michael Jackson passed away from a drug overdose. It so sadden me because I grew up listening to his music and I knew that he struggled internally with many things from the way he was abused as a child. I found myself praying to the Lord about his whereabouts, hoping that somewhere in his last moments he cried out to the Lord to save his soul. It was such an intense prayer and plea from within me, and I'm not exactly sure why or where it came from. But the Lord came to me a couple of nights later, and He told me He wanted to show me something.

Suddenly, I was in this terrible place. It was a tangible black with a dim orange and red glow. There were flames everywhere. In front of me, I saw what I knew was a man, but he was unrecognizable because his body was mangled, burnt, and in a skeletal form. The man was suspended in the air by chains that were connected to each of his arms and legs. Suddenly, this music began to play and the man began to sing, but his singing was in a tormented voice. It was then that I recognized who it was: it was Michael Jackson. The chains began to move up and down like someone was stringing him like a puppet. His mangled, burnt body began to move up and down as if to dance while his tormented soul sang in agony.

The vision then ended, and I was back in my room.

I was so shaken by the experience, but I understood that the Lord wanted me to know what had happened to him. And it would not be the last time the Lord would show me such horrific scenes of those who departed this life without Him. Hell is a real place, and God sends no one there, we send ourselves by choosing to live this life for ourselves instead of for Him.

My purpose in sharing this is because this morning, I stumbled across a recent video where a woman by the name of Kat Kerr was being interviewed, and she shared that she went to heaven and had a conversation with Michael Jackson. I was so shocked at this claim, and grieved in my spirit that I needed to bring this to the light because over forty thousand people have viewed this video.

Jesus warned us in Matthew 24:4-13, 23-25 that in the last days before His return, that many false christs, teachers, prophets would rise up, and that they would even preform signs and wonders, but we were not to be deceived by such.

We are living in a dangerous season where many voices are speaking all at once, and many sound well, convincing, and true, but most are not. And this is why it is so important to be tuned in to God; learning to continuously dwell in the secret place, and abiding in Him, not quenching the Holy Spirit with our sin or the distractions of day-to-day life, so that we are not deceived by the evil one.

This is the season of the minor prophets. A season where we will see the manifestation of God's power through those who are common, unknown, and disliked by the majority. This is a season of the remnant.

Therefore Keep Watch...

Shalom
