

HELEN SANDERS
PROPHETIC WORD
5-18-2020

Just as water falling upon the earth through a refreshing rain brings new life, I shall bring water to your dry and weary soul. For you have labored and yielded yourself to me and have pressed through, saith the Lord. For I am refreshing you now with the well spring of life. Shall you not taste it on your tongue and know that I am refreshing you? For the hours ahead will require the refreshing more than ever. Come aside and let me water your full self. Your spirit, your soul, your body. For you are weary, and you must take this time to be refreshed. The wounds and scars are many. Come unto me my beloved and let me tend to those wounds and let them be healed saith the Lord. For in the hour ahead you will need more strength than ever to continue in the call I have laid before you. I will show you the path, but only one step at a time. For the days ahead as are of the old ones that wrote of this time. For surely they are here and I will bring you through. You have been chosen for this hour, for such a time as this, for you are called to be light in a world of darkness. Do not try to question the assignment or the reason of your call. Know that you were born for and raised up for this hour. It is surely not a mistake that you were born for this hour, for I know the thoughts I have towards for you, and am acquainted with them saith the Lord, and I know the thoughts you have towards me and am acquainted with them, saith the Lord. For I am equipping you for this hour in a way that will bring many to light and repel darkness. Yet in this time, you must surely come and be refreshed often so you can withstand the attacks of the enemy. There is a tightening of the cord of the enemy and he would like to trap you and take you down, but I have withstood him and will not allow you to go through more than you can bear. I have removed obstacles and persons out of your path so that you can press through. You would surely wonder why they are gone, but I would say do not dwell on what isn't here, dwell on me, who is here. For I am with you and I will guide you and I will lead you to victory. For in this hour mighty warriors are being raised up to fight off the conflicts ahead, saith the Lord. You are not alone in this battle. You are not alone. For there is a remnant that has been chosen for this hour, and you are part of it, saith the Lord. So now come apart and be refreshed and get your next assignment for I would talk to you in this hour, saith the Lord. Come now and hear what I would say, saith the Lord. Come and be refreshed.
