AN ATTITUDE OF GRATITUDE

No matter what your circumstances in life are, there is always something to thank God for. If nothing else, we should always be thankful for our salvation. I could list dozens of things to thank God for from fingernails to eyelashes.

I met a lady once that had no saliva glands. It was nearly impossible for her to eat. She had to continuously add moisture to her mouth. I must be honest; I haven't thanked God for my saliva glands, but I should. It would be a difficult life without them.

Often, we want more and more things which causes us to worship the creation instead of the creator. (Romans 1:25.) This is a selfish way to live. It never has gratitude that all that we have has come from God.

1 Thessalonians 5:18 says, "In everything give thanks: for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you." We don't thank God for disasters that happen, but we thank Him in those situations. We thank Him that he delivered us from them. We have a heart of gratitude.

As a parent, we are always more inclined to give more to a child that is grateful than one that isn't. I truly believe that God is the same.

An attitude of gratitude can melt any parent's heart, including God!
