THE CHESSBOARD

I have sensed for a while, and even saw a vision that people are being transitioned into unfamiliar places and new assignments.

I saw a chessboard and Jesus was moving the pieces on it. As he went to move the pieces some of the pieces yielded to his touch while others resisted. Those that resisted were taken out by the enemy. Those that yielded to "his move" were safe. Then I saw the words "checkmate."

I sense that God is positioning people into strategic places. Some of you will be moving physically to secure your safety, but also to be in the right place for the kingdom of God. Your move may not feel comfortable, but the move will be absolutely necessary. Others will want to move, but God says stay because your position protects others. If you move when it isn't time you will also be taken out. Others are being called (moved) spiritually to come up higher. The price will be great, but the reward greater.

Many will be deceived into thinking it isn't God wanting to bring these changes in your life. This will be caused simply because you have not spent enough time in the secret place getting the instructions that God would have you to know. You may be one of those that clings on to every word a prophet may say but spend little time listening to God for yourself. It will be destructive for those that do not follow the voice of the Lord. God always confirms through his word.

Also, if a prophetic word does not set with you then you know it isn't from God. There will always be peace when God leads.

I am reminded of the warning that came to Lot, his wife, and family. They were living in "sin city" but Abraham loved them so much that he interceded to God to spare their lives. God sent angels to them to take them out of this place. When they left, they were told not to look back, but Lot's wife resisted that warning. She was so bound into the lifestyle of sin that she looked back and was destroyed.

Prophet after prophet have sent out warnings to not only prepare for what is ahead, but to separate ourselves unto God, and to listen, listen, listen. The days ahead will be like that chessboard. Those that have heeded the warning will be safe and will be taken care of. Those that have ignored the warning and have not yielded to God's plan, for whatever reason, will be taken out.

This is not a game my friends. God wants us to follow his lead and be safe. There is no safer place to be than in the will of God. Checkmate is coming.
