Ganton Golf Club. in the top 30 of Europe's Championship courses, is nestled in the Vale of Pickering, near the coastal resort of Scarborough. The architecture of the course is a tribute to some most famous names in golf. Vardon, Ray, Braid, Taylor, Colt and MacKenzie have all contributed to make Ganton a unique challenge. Ganton has hosted the Ryder Cup, the Walker Cup, the Curtis Cup, the Amateur Championship. Sir Michael Bonnallack, former Amateur Champion and past Captain of the R&A, summed up Ganton well. "The journey from tee to green on every hole is one of the most enjoyable golfing examinations that a player is ever likely to experience"

Moortown Golf Club was formed in 1909 and the present clubhouse was opened in 1915 and by the mid-1920s existed without major alterations for over sixty years. Moortown's popularity among professionals grew through hosting the Yorkshire Evening News Professional Tournament, then the Ryder Cup in 1929 which attracted the attention of international media, establishing Moortown's world-wide reputation as a Championship golf course designed by Dr Alister MacKenzie. The founders invited Dr MacKenzie to visit the site which he did in October 1908, coming to the conclusion that the land would make a fine course and offering to aid the founders in its design.

Sand Moor Golf Club: Although the club officially opened in 1926, it was five years earlier that Henry Barran began to lay out a course, originally of six holes, four to the south of Alwoodley Lane. The major influence in the creation of the course was Yorkshire born Dr. Alister Mackenzie, who chaired the first AGM on March 7th, 1925. He had previously designed the other two major golf courses in the area. The club officially opened on March 20th 1926. Members were invited to buy a debenture to finance the construction of the original clubhouse, which was then situated close to where Moortown's clubhouse is currently located. Changes to the course took place in the late 1960's with advice from Henry Cotton.

The Alwoodley Golf Club was founded in 1907. The course was laid out that year on Wigton Moor, part of the Harewood estate, on the outskirts to the north of Leeds. One of the founders was a local GP called Dr Alister MacKenzie, who would also design the course. Alwoodley was the first course that MacKenzie created and he would go on to become one of the world's most famous architects. The original MacKenzie layout remains at Alwoodley to this day. The course has now been lengthened to over 6,900 yards from the championship tees. The club have been careful to retain the heathland and moorland characteristics of the course, as well as the MacKenzie hallmarks of variety, natural beauty and intriguing strategy
