Before I Let Go: How Far Do You Go to Keep Your Soulmate?

AUTHOR: Chris Ware

For a long time, the idea of a soulmate seemed unreal to me. I thought that too many people die lonely for soulmates to exist. But most of the time we run our soulmate off because we don't realize it when they're right in front of us. I almost ran away from my soulmate. But Jason Hart is mine forever. He was walking my way and I couldn't help but smile.

Happy Food Cookbook: Free of Gluten, Dairy, Soy, Corn, Peanuts, and Refined Sugar

AUTHOR: Kimber Dean

I first knew I wanted to be healthy at age seventeen. I was brought up in a family that consumed a lot of fast food meals, frozen meals, and processed foods that lasted forever in the pantry. When I decided I wanted to live a healthier lifestyle I had no one to direct or educate me. The first things to go were soda and fast food. Gradually I learned what to eliminate from my diet and what worked for my body.

Baking and cooking with my grandma as a child and teenager were two things I loved. Gramma always made our time in the kitchen fun, and the people we cooked for were always happier after the meal. Our food wasn't the healthiest, but the positive feeling food brought to everyone was the deciding factor when choosing my career. I began to research nutrition on my own. And that is how my journey to Happy Food Cookbook began. In 2008 I graduated from California Culinary Academy, Le Cordon Bleu in San Francisco, where I learned my skill as a chef.

I stopped eating processed sugar in 2008 to see how I felt, and the results were amazing. I stopped having crashes during the day. I felt energized all day long, my cravings for sugar and carbs went away, and I wasn't as moody. In 2013, after being diagnosed with a gluten allergy and reading Wheat Belly by Dr. William Davis, I challenged myself to remove gluten from my diet. Now I get incredibly sick when I eat or come into contact with gluten.

I don't agree with the way animals are processed commercially from pasture to table, so I've stopped consuming all meat products that are raised with these cruel practices. I am alarmed by the toxins and hormones used in preparing bulk meat for stores these days. I eat seafood, venison, chicken, and beef when I know where and how it has been raised and processed, which can be tough at times if you don't have local farmers that have grass-fed and grass-finished animals. I do not eat pork, because it is the only meat that holds toxins in its fat cells.

Since changing my diet, I have lost forty pounds and dropped ten pant sizes. I know first-hand how lonely it feels to be overweight and unhealthy. But we don't have to be alone in this fight. We can unite and make this country supply our demand for healthy food through our choices at our markets. Never forget your power as a consumer with every dollar you spend and your power with your thoughts. Believe in yourself and others, and you can do and be whatever you want to be.

I am just here as a guide to help you on your journey.

Denton Pl, Tables Turned (Volume 1)

AUTHOR: Thomasema Pannell

How does a woman from a picture-perfect family find herself entangled in a web of deceit and heartache? Denton Pl, Tables Turned is the story of such a woman. It is the story of the way she overcame abortion, multiple struggles of out-of-wedlock pregnancies, disability of a child, divorce and revenge. It is the story of relationships that at first looked so good, but later turned into the ashes of despair. It is the story of Julia, whose success in business and the military defies the failure and war in her personal life. It is the story of her long journey from sorrow to finally finding peace with the Author of Peace, the almighty God. Julia learns that popularity, good looks, intelligence and coming from a good family are no insurance against passing through dark times in life because of choices made. Even though she plays the role of the perfect lady and was an outstanding soldier; even though she works hard and is successful in her professional life and duties; even though she is devoted to her children, it is not enough. Finally, circumstances turn her life upside down, and she has to acknowledge she has spent most of her life living behind a mask. It is then that she accepts Jesus as her personal savior, and He gives her wisdom to live unmasked...to stand tall again. It took time but now she is a complete woman - a woman who is not afraid to speak and live by truth.

S.H.E. Did It!: One Woman's Journey to Becoming Shameless, Healed, and Empowered

AUTHOR: Tiffinia Williams

I weighed in at 5 lbs 13 oz and my parents were happy. But their world was immediately shaken up when the doctors told them that I wouldn't survive because I was so small. My parents didn't know what to do. They called my grandmother, Annie Ruth Willis, a sweet, southern, hardworking, and a loving woman and explained to her what the doctors had just told them. Triumphant!: One Woman's Journey From Prison to Purpose

AUTHOR: Tiffinia Williams

I tried to live my life the way I'd been shown, and early on, it wasn't as hard to do. But as I got older, choices weren't so black and white. Love can make you do things that you otherwise would not do. Haven't you ever done something that you really didn't want to do, but it was for someone you really loved? I've come to understand that sometimes, the places we find ourselves and the experiences we encounter serve to prepare us for our purpose. Now that I have the benefit of age, experience, and wisdom, I can see how the things I went through has shaped the woman I am now. The dreams and goals I have now were not the dreams I started out with. My love and my choices left me facing a ten-year prison sentence! In spite of my choices and what I thought I wanted for my life, my dreams took a different turn. My new dreams have been directly influenced by the direction my life took. Coincidence? Read my story and then you can decide.

Beneath The Sun: Finding Love Right Where You Are

AUTHOR: Ricky Allen

Redo Stuart is a bi-vocational man focusing on his work. As the CEO of a fortune 500 company and an associate pastor, he has little time to contemplate on the absence of love in his life. When he meets Beatrice Napal, the unlikely encounter, in an unlikely place, brings about an unlikely connection. The twelve-day journey proves life-changing for the both of them; so much so, that it now seems impossible to say goodbye.

Loving Beatrice Napal is redemptive for Redo Stuart.

Finally, he feels he has found the love that was meant just for him. What does one do when they are presented with the woman that King Solomon wrote about; a woman worth far more than rubies?

The answer is simple, he stands right where he is and let's love be what it can be.

Word of God in Motion: One Woman's Struggle to Save Her Family After Great Tragedy

AUTHOR: Yolanda M. Winston

"Word of God in Motion: One Woman's Struggle to Save Her Family After Great Tragedy" is the true account of debut-author and motivational speaker Yolanda Winston. The book is written in honor of her amazing, one and one son, Marquis Demario Winston, who resides in Heaven. The author lost her son in a sudden and tragic vehicular accident. The fight to survive without her son was hard enough, but the young mother of three also had to figure out how to hold her marriage together and deal with the illness (and subsequent deaths) of her mother and grandmother. What do you do when it seems there are challenges every where you turn? This book will help others understand that no matter what the trial (death, marriage on the rocks, divorce or serious illness etc.), there is a way to overcome.

How to Stop for a Cop: Reconnecting Law Enforcement and the Community

AUTHOR: Hubert a Peterkin

Are you afraid or concerned when a cop stops you? Do the blue lights make you nervous - questioning every action you took during your day? Does doubt or lack of trust for officers during a traffic stop make you uncomfortable? For many, these questions can be answered quickly and the answers can be painful to admit out loud. The answers then bring up totally new sets of questions that can be summed up to one bigger one, 'How do I survive?'

This book, How to Stop For A Cop, has the answer to many questions you may have. It addresses your concerns and gives step-by-step instructions on how to stop for a cop. While addressing the Ethics in Law Enforcement, it describes when, what, where, and how to stop; taking the time to address use of force, deadly force, and more. In addition, this book advises you on what to expect from the officer during a stop encounter.

It is important that Law enforcement, drivers and the community close the gap that has created a serious disconnect leading to confrontation, serious injury, and sometimes even death during a traffic stop. As a Law Enforcement officer of 30 years Sheriff Peterkin knows first hand that Law Enforcement and the community need one another. The more we understand, and respect each other during a traffic stop or any encounter, the less chance there is of sadness and tears as the end result.

'How To Stop For A Cop' is a must read with several important topics, related reflections, and personal messages to both Law Enforcement and the community.

Shades of Red: Confessions of a Wanna Be Church Girl

AUTHOR: Sapphire

I confess; I have wondered over the years if I am undiagnosed. The things I think, feel, and do (as I've come to understand from conversations with my mother) are not normal. However, they are normal for me. I HATE people. I don't think there is anything wrong with me. Which according to Psychologist Hervey Cleckley, I wouldn't. For me, it's about power and dominance. I live for the chase and the gratification of the kill. I deal with men, but I deal with women too. I'm not gay, or bisexual. As a matter of fact, I don't like pussy at all. That's why I remain fully clothed and I wear gloves. I don't even want the juices on me. Do I get off? Yes, I do, but it's not from sex. It's from the power I take from the people I encounter. I believe in God. I love God and I know He exists. I even heard Him speak once, just as sure as my name is Morgan. God told me to get in line and live right so that I could hear Him. I've been trying. The duality of my life probably makes some people think I'm ashamed or remorseful. Nothing could be farther from the truth. I'm very smart. I possess charm. So much so that I know it's a requirement for what I do.
