

5th Annual Regional Conference:
Pivoting Towards CHW Professionalism
JULY 29, 2022

Texas Health Resources Pavilion
Arlington, TX 76011

Conference Speaker

Dr. Chhetri is currently working as an Adjunct Assistant Professor (one-year appointment) at the School of Public Health, University of North Texas Health Science Center.

With a Ph.D. degree focused on improving community health, Dr. Chhetri is trained in strategies to promote community engagement, behavioral health theory-informed and evidence-based program development, implementation approaches, and evaluation methods. She is a mixed-methods researcher and is well versed in both qualitative and quantitative research.

Shlesma Chhetri, PhD

In her academic career so far, she has worked on a wide array of community health topics such as women's wellness, homelessness, intimate partner violence, breast health, community reentry of individuals with substance use problems, etc.

Dr. Chhetri's current job responsibilities include community health research, advising, and promoting community partnerships. She is looking to transition into new opportunities.

REGISTER TODAY!