

March 6, 2024 – Day 2,111,593 of the Crisis of Identity

Title: What is Wrong with Us?

When you ask this question, you will get different answers depending upon the social construct of the individual you ask. The question then becomes how do we let go of the ologies we have created, whether secular or spiritual, to remove ourselves from the knowledge of good and evil? Removing ourselves from the war of good and evil is a very difficult task for us. Admitting what we have created on the earth as a matter of existence is wrong. We are all looking for the truth, let alone the ability to understand what is true. But the governments of kingdoms and nations have pursued the answer to this question through the ages. The problem is the pursuit has been through the knowledge of good and evil.

There is one defining narrative that describes what is wrong with mankind, it is in the biblical account of the beginning we call Genesis.

Genesis chapters 1, 2, and 3 describe the nature of existence in the image and likeness of our creator and how we abandoned the truth for a lie. That we can create our author our own existence by holding the knowledge of good and evil.
