Massive Star Clusters from Colliding Giant Molecular Clouds
Blake Drechsler¹, Duo Xu¹, Chia-Jung Hsu¹, Jonathan C. Tan¹,²
¹Department of Astronomy, University of Virginia, VA, USA
²Astronomy and Plasma Physics, Chalmers University of Technology, Sweden

Result of cloud collision simulation initialized with a 10 μG B-field. One region containing a dense filament is showed in the zoomed in window to show the embedded core. B-field direction is shown in the overlaid texture.

Comparison of mass weighted B-field inferred from simulation to a synthetic dust polarization map.

Test simulations for our bipolar feedback model. Shown for a single star in a uniform medium, for various stellar masses and at two resolutions.