Inspiring
Others
to Live Forgiven

About Tracey

Tracey's childhood experiences left her vulnerable and seeking validation in a broken world. Guilt and shame imprisoned her, but God was there.

With Christ, she has not merely endured life, she has learned to flourish in life.

Through humor and laughter, Tracey speaks to the wounded soul. She reveals the invisible walls of the self-made prison of guilt and shame, and helps uncover the key to escape

As Tracey was speaking the room fell silent and listened intently. She had everyone in the room laughing and crying at the same time! I look forward to more from her in the future.

I have had the opportunity to watch Tracey speak in front of various audiences. She has always captivated the audience, whether serious content or entertaining.

Signature Message

Words have impact. “She’s the fat one in the family” were the words that sent Tracey on an endless quest for affirmation. But that road led to date rape, abuse, bankruptcy, and a crippling fear of judgment.

Since society bases worthiness on looks, money, and status, a marriage on life support, a child with special needs, and eleven dollars in the bank, was far from perfection.

Never rich enough, pretty enough, or skinny enough. Enough is enough!

Women need to take power back! There is power and freedom in overcoming:

- Perfectionism
- Negative self-talk
- Other’s opinions

Help women see themselves as Jesus sees them, help them learn to Live Forgiven!

Benefit to Your Audience

The audience will walk away with practical ways to avoid the pitfalls of perfectionism, change negative self-talk, and constructively process criticism.
