Supervision

Things to consider...

Does the person have:

The ability to be at home alone for any amount of time?

Ability to be in the community without someone specifically responsible for watching over them?

Places where they can be more independent?

Known or familiar places vs. new or with the general public

Supervision Suggestions

Evaluate

- Supervision needs

Consider

- Student/Family future wants

Identify

- Gaps between current needs and future vision

Create/Implement

- Plan to expand skills to position for future goals

Request for Proposal (RFP)

Developmental Pathways' Case Managers (CMs) can help you connect with providers

Create Profile

- CM will complete a profile about wants/needs

Profile Sent

- Profile will be sent to all qualified providers

Interested Providers

- Individuals/families will be given contact info for interested providers

Service Plan

- Once you select a provider, CM will add to Service Plan and services can begin

Summary

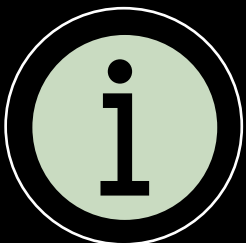

There are many options for students after exiting the school system.

How someone spends their time will evolve and can be a combination of service types and providers.

There is excitement, funding, and support for employment, especially for youth.

Investing effort into developing safety/independence skills to minimize supervision needs will increase opportunities/comfort levels, however, services will meet people where they are at.
