Update to COVID-19 Guidelines
A Message from the Office of Corporate Health and Safety

As the Department prepares for increased occupancy, the Office of Corporate Health and Safety is issuing the updated COVID-19 guidance below, to address some of the most frequent inquiries.

INDOOR WORK ENVIRONMENTS

- City of Los Angeles COVID-19 Workplace Safety Standards (revised February 22, 2022) are still in place, which may on occasion differ from county, state, or federal guidelines. In such instances where governing policies are not in alignment, the more stringent standard must be adhered to.

- Face coverings are required with the following exceptions:
  - When you are alone in a separate room, office, or interior space.
  - NOTE: Cubicles are not considered a separate room, office, or interior space.

- Self-screening is required before entering a facility. Refer to posted signage (sample below).

- There are no limits to indoor occupancy, other than where posted (such as in elevators or restrooms). Posted signage will be considered the prevailing guidance, and must be adhered to. Examples include:

Facility managers may obtain signage from Reprographics.

CARPOOL/RIDESHARING/VANPOOL

- Distancing is no longer required.
- Face coverings are required.
- Self-screening is required before entering the vehicle.
- Windows should be rolled down where feasible and ventilation should be optimized.

INJURY AND ILLNESS PREVENTION PLAN (IIPP) – EXPOSURE CONTROL PLAN (ECP)

The IIPP-ECP is being revised to align with recently adopted California Occupational Safety and Health Administration Emergency Temporary Standards (revised April 21, 2022), and will be posted on the Corporate Safety webpage when finalized. Policies related to COVID-19 are subject to change based on local, state, and federal updated guidelines. All are reminded to review the website regularly for latest information.
