Dasiqox Tribal Park is located in traditional T̂silhqot'in territory, about 125 km southwest of Williams Lake, BC. In October 2014, Xeni Gwet'in and Yunešit'in Governments, together with T̂silhqot'in National Government created the IPCA on 300,000 ha of land with the goal of overseeing environmental stewardship, while developing a sustainable economy and upholding the land as a place where T̂silhqot'in culture, language can thrive. Ecotourism is a major activity. www.dasiqox.org
