Act of interposition in accordance with the doctrine of lesser magistrates

This action is by the herein enacted "Committee of Safety" with lawful authority of "The United States of America" and forty-eight contiguous several States of the Union under the first in Time first in right "Articles of Confederation" amended March 06, 2022 enacted by and through the population of people established lawfully in Bilateral Social Compact Agreement. Contact information found in the following website <http://theafr.org/> This action of interposition in accordance with the doctrine of lesser magistrates, Universal Declaration Of Human Rights, and the Law of Nations as written by Emerich de Vattel, published in 1758 defining the Conduct of Sovereigns.

The Lawful Sovereign Offices of: Sheriff and Governor in all forty-eight contiguous States of the Union are hereby enacted by and through the aforementioned lawful constitutional legislature within the herein enacted "Committee of Safety" in the several States of the Union, body politic Society. Every inhabitant acting from an inferior corporate society through the contract AKA. Unwritten constitutional office, being served this notice, is hereby commissioned and delegated limited lawful authority to end wars of attrition caused by acts of inferior corporate legislative congress, punishing people and or persons without lawful trial by and through bills of attainder.

The war of attrition is hereby defined: warfare by attrition, is the corporate congressional military style strategy consisting of belligerent attempts to win their war by wearing down lawful constitutional people in the several States of the Union "The United States of America" ratified 1781-2021-2022" to the point of operational collapse, thereby perpetuating a permanent state of Statelessness, by and through aforementioned acts of inferior congress. The aforementioned acts of inferior corporate congressional legislation prevents necessities of society which forces all inhabitants of society into aggression upon itself enabling perpetual submission to inferior congressional legislation. CHAPTER 11 Of the Sovereign Who Wages an Unjust War § 183. An unjust war gives no right whatsoever. § 187. Whether the nation and the military are bound to anything. The restitution of conquests, of prisoners, and of all property that still exists in a recoverable state, admits of no doubt when the injustice of the war is acknowledged. The nation in her aggregate capacity, and each individual particularly concerned, being convinced of the injustice of their possession, are bound to relinquish it, and to restore every thing which they have wrongfully acquired. But, as to the reparation of any damage, are the military, the generals, officers and soldiers, obliged in conscience to repair the injuries which they have done, not of their own will, but as instruments in the hands of their sovereign?

CHAPTER 14 Of the Right of Postliminium § 204. Definition of the right of postliminium¹ THE right of postliminium is that in virtue of which persons and things taken by the enemy are restored to their former state, on coming again into the power of the nation to which they belonged.² § 205. Foundation of this right. The sovereign is bound to protect the persons and property of his subjects, and to defend them against the enemy. When, therefore, a subject, or any part of his property, has fallen into the enemy's possession, should any fortunate event bring them again into the sovereign's power, it is undoubtedly his duty to restore them to their former condition, — to re-establish the persons in all their rights and obligations, to give back the effects to the owners, — in a word, to replace every thing on the same footing on which it stood previous to the enemy's capture. The justice or injustice of the war makes no difference in this case, — not only because, according to the voluntary law of nations, the war, as to its effects, is reputed just on both sides, but likewise because war, whether just or not, is a national concern; and, if the subjects who fight or suffer in the national cause, should, after they have, either in their persons or their property, fallen into the enemy's power, be, by some fortunate incident, restored to the hands of their own people, there is no reason why they should not be restored to their former condition. It is the same as if they had never been taken. If the war was just on the part of their nation, they were unjustly captured by the enemy; and thus nothing is more natural than to restore them as soon as it becomes possible. If the war is unjust, they are under no greater obligation to suffer in atonement for its injustice than the rest of the nation. Fortune brings down the evil on their heads when they are taken: she delivers them from it when they escape. Here, again, it is the same as if they never had been captured. Neither their own sovereign, nor the enemy, has any particular right over them. The enemy has lost by one accident what he had gained by another. § 206. How it takes effect. Persons return, and things are recovered, by the right of postliminium, when, after having been taken by the enemy, they come again into the power of their own nation (§ 204). This right, therefore, takes effect as soon as such persons or things captured by the enemy fall into the hands of soldiers belonging to their own nation, or are brought back to the army, the camp, the territories of their sovereign, or the places under his command.

We, the people in "The United States of America" hereby reject the aforementioned state of Statelessness and war of attrition, by and through service of this notice, We the people make peace. This limited delegation of authority creates this duty of inferior officers to take action being enacted as lawful officers. This is your call to lawful duty ending your restrictions of the person you have been bound to by private contractual corporate inferior society! Replacing rightful people of the several States through international treaties and or licensing, with foreign associations is hereby forbidden. Perpetuating the aforementioned war of attrition as inferior officers is the international war crime of genociding people of the several States of the Union "The United States of America"
