

Max Suavo Bio

International Reggae Artist Max Suavo grew up in Kingston Jamaica and began his singing debut as lead singer of the teen group The Classiques. The group entertained local Jamaicans by performing mainly cover songs by Denis Brown, Bob Marley, Barrington Levy, Ini Kamoze, Lionel Richie, Kool and the Gang, AirSupply etc. Max Suavo later became the lead singer for the OutCast Band in Kingston Jamaica. During this period Max shared stage with the likes of Marcia Griffiths, Rita Marley, Lloyd Parks and others at various venues such as UWI, Utech and several High School/college end of year concerts. Max juggled his singing activities with track and field athletics and was High School national champion in both the 800m and 1500m before leaving Jamaica for Florida. Max had a long hiatus from the music scene but restarted in 2013, writing and composing Roots Reggae, Soul ballads, Reggaeton and Lite-Rock songs as a multi-genre crossover artist. Max Suavo's latest EP reached #1 on three separate Reverbnation's charts: Jamaican Regional, Kingston Local and Reggae Global charts. The EP features sweet reggae vocal harmony, invigorating lead guitar hooks and tight basslines. Max Suavo is a spiritually conscious artist whose music promotes unity, peace, love, and hope. Max's new Album "Civilization" was released in March 2021. FOR BOOKINGS send email to kwalex02@gmail.com
